Ed, ☺
Its been great playing football with you these last 2 years and hope me and you start on varsity. Have a great summer.

Bruce Lewis

Ed,
I hope you have a great summer
I'll see you at the beach

Oscar Torres

Big Ed,

Eddie, It's been great having you as a friend. To beat people and get blind off our Asses. I love playing ball shit with you and you need to concentrate on your game though we need to go surfing all summer at the beach. long morning, noon, & night. I want to get so good, I'm gonna do off-the-lips, awesome cutbacks, and Hectic drop-ins. I think your one of my best six friends. OF COURSE YOU AIR!!!!! I'm glad I know because your really cool. when your parents go away we are going to get so blind and blaze away in your Jacquzie All night long until we shrivel up and go down The drain. I'll talk to ya later, be cool and stay my friend through thick and thin. I really hope you make it in life and your goals in football. I really love you as such a good friend. your really dear to me. seeya

ACTIVITIES are a viral part of a student's school life and help make school exciting. Pg. 16

The cover expresses the mood and tone of the school year for El Segundo High. Changes were all around us with a new principal, music room, baseball field, and eighth graders. The campus was closed and classes were larger. The changing tides of the ocean reminded us of the many changes taking place in our lives and at school. We feel our theme. "The Changing Tides" justly describes the 1980 school year at ESHS.

Classes, learning, and homework is what school and ACADEMICS is all about. Pg. 160

ESHS participated in many SPORTS events which involved over half the student body. Pg. 46

Strange FACES in a crowded hall become friends and individuals once school starts. Pg. 78

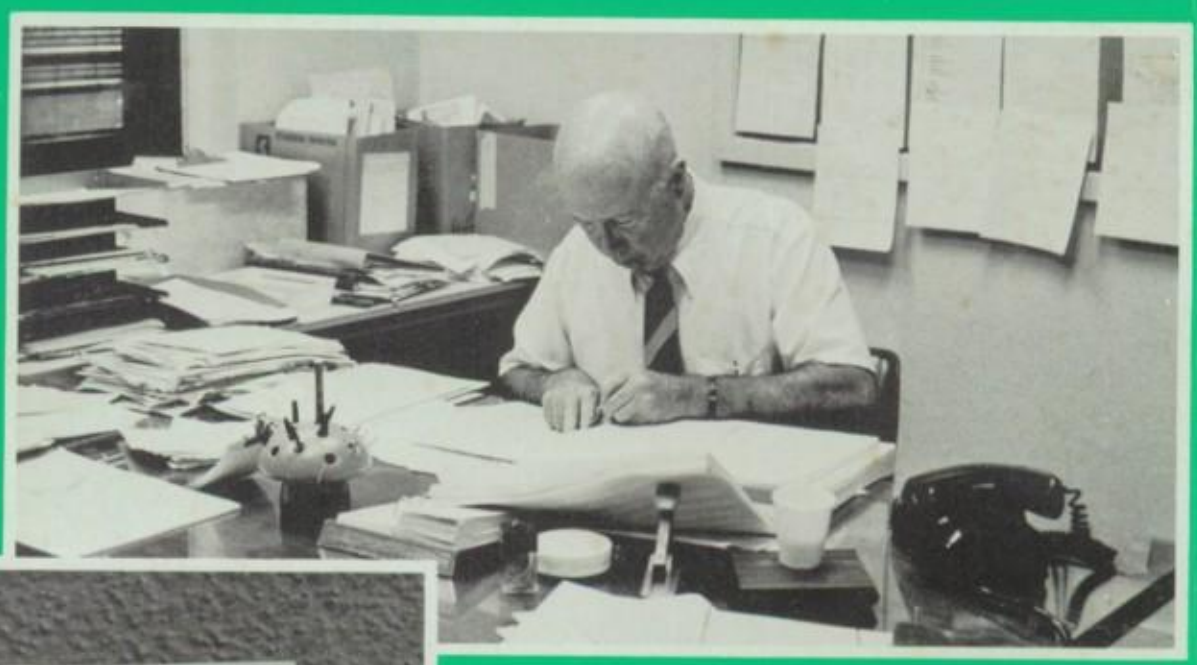
ADS and INDEX are the final pages, bringing both the annual and the year to an end. Pg. 194

THE CHANGING TIDES



Above: Signs have a way of expressing exactly what the student wishes to get across. This one reminds many a student of the weeks of longing for Christmas vacation. Top right: Doctor Grange McKinney works diligently in his office on the student attendance records. This is just one of the many daily duties of our Vice-Principal. Lower right: Laura Borders pushes the Equal Rights Amendment one step further as she rocks-out in a tuxedo during the 1979 Junior-Senior Prom at The Odyssey restaurant.

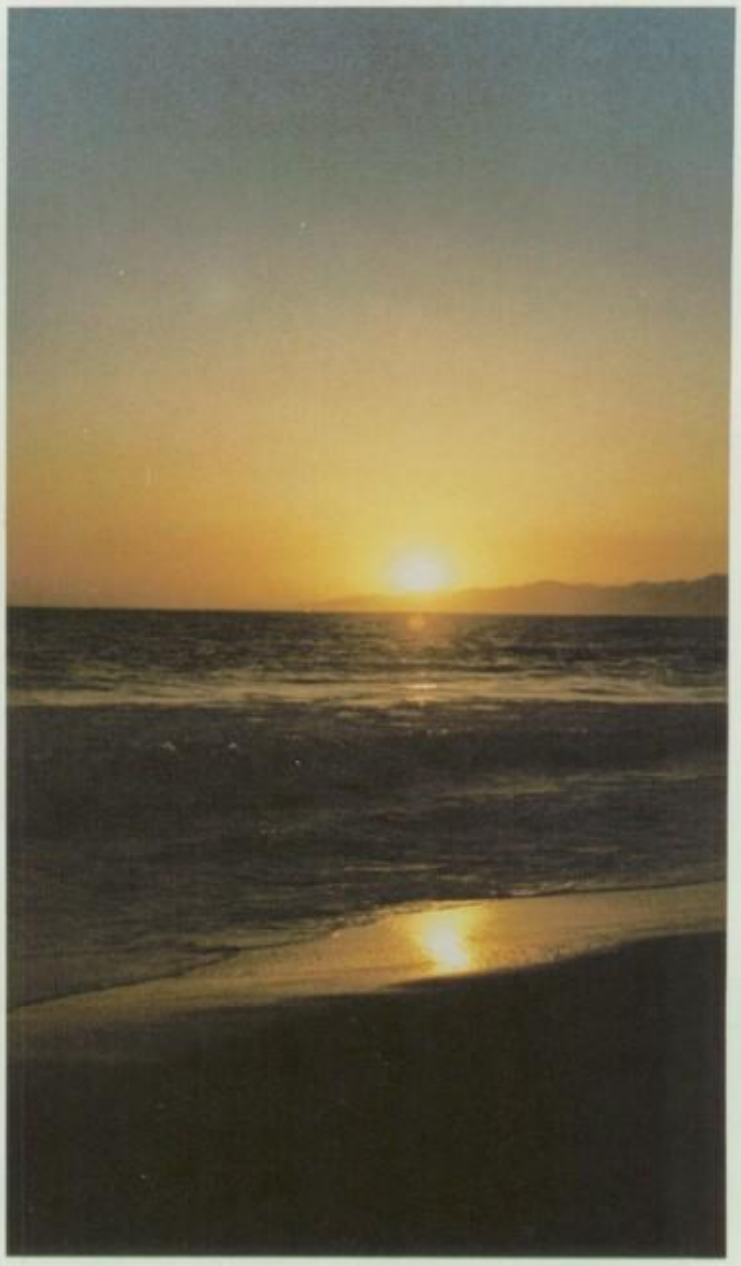
First the tide rushes in, washes up on the shore, and rerreats to its beginning; then the sea is still once more. The tide is constantly changing. It is a cycle of high and low tides, bringing with it changes in the waves and shore line. Living only minutes away from the Pacific Ocean, we students of El Segundo High School are aware of the power and beauty of the ocean on our lives. It offers us fun and happiness in our swimming, surfing, and parties at Grand Beach. The sea provides us with jobs as lifeguards and careers in the Coast Guard. Sunsets and shells give us an appreciation of nature and beauty. The ocean influences our whole being . . . our life style. Our school is very closely related to the ocean and its influences, and so, because of the many similarities we, the 1980 Golden Eagle Staff, have chosen as our theme, "THE CHANGING TIDES."

The sea is all around us . . . our weather, our food, our whole life. The sea of changes was all around us as we started school in September of 1979. Jim Perino was the new principal, new to El Segundo High School and to the area. The eighth graders were new additions to our campus since the closing of the junior high school last spring. A new music building and parking lot were completed, and the Girls' Gym and new baseball field were quickly changing into realities day by day. But the changes were more than people and buildings.



Top left: Every Friday, when there was a home football game, rallies were held. Students gathered before lunch to be entertained by Pep Club. Some rallies were held on the football field, while others were held in the boys gym. Top right: The sun shines ever so brightly across the vast changing tides of the ocean and it's shores, while quickly but silently sinking down into the earth. Our changing lives are very similar to the tides of the ocean. Above: This year's seniors enjoyed being archbearers for the 1979 graduation. Before they realize it, these seniors will be proudly walking under those very same arches, on their way to new and ever changing worlds.

Attitudes and feelings were changing too. Students were taking more pride in their school and assuming more responsibility for their learning because of the changes. We felt the spirit of change and the challenge to face those changes. Closed campus, after several years of freedom, was a change for the worse. However, we met and learned and talked and gave, calling back to better times of yesterday in one sense, but visioning the future of building and adjusting while standing in the present Changing Tide.

Top right: Not every day is tranquil at ESHS. Here Bill Watkins tells a student from Venice that he must leave because of the near-riot that almost erupted in Senior Park. Above: ASB Vice-President John McNicholas test-tastes the hamburger on his lunch plate and frowns, "Now I know why everyone complains." Well, that's the cafeteria food for you! Middle right: Karen Varner, Kim Luttrell, and Teri Schrader enjoy meeting on the moat at snack to give a yell for hot days and cool shorts, a common combination in September. Lower right: Diana Winkler is concentrating on reading an important paper, the daily bulletin. She wants to be sure to sign up for the college speaker and attend the Senior class meeting.

For years, El Segundo High School rode the crest of the wave in education. We were one of the finest schools around, offering the best in academics, sports and education. But the wave crashed on shore a couple of years ago in the wake of Proposition 13, declining enrollment and causing other financial problems. It was a low tide this year to discover that photography and metal shop had been discontinued. A limit of two teams in each sport was still a reality, and fewer teachers were available for fewer classes. The tide is the rising and falling of the ocean, and it ebbs and flows in a daily cycle. The changes in our school rose and fell, meeting new friends, laughing with old ones, and just being alone were all a part of our daily life at ESHS. They were all changing with each new day. Changing is growing, and we were growing into new people, new roles, and new life. Like the ocean waves and rides that go through the continuous cycle of change, we must continually go through life, rising and falling with the flow of events.

Top left: Bren Conner glances aside while hurriedly opening his locker to switch books. Middle left: Seniors are proud to be at the top, and to wear their class rings turned around. Lower left: Band and Drill Team practice daily to perform their best at the football games. Above: Peter Zolabak, that definitely is a new and different "hail" for the Alma Mater!

DYNAMIC DUO

Twosome that works

Jack and Jacqueline Lowell teach shop, make posters and programs for school activities, and happily help and serve the students and staff of El Segundo High School.

Jack Lowell teaches eighth grade Metal Shop and two classes of Wood Shop. He just arrived on the high school campus in September as a result of the closing of the junior high school last year. He has been a shop teacher in the El Segundo schools for many years, beginning with his first job as shop teacher in the high school. Many students have had shop classes from Mr. Lowell and have made rings, trays, plant hangers and many other useful and decorative objects under his guidance and teaching. He is a talented and creative man who gives his students the skills and knowledge they will need for home or career. He also gives them advice and encouragement. His values of pride and faith in one's self and in one's work are values which students will long remember.

Jacqueline Lowell, a Media Clerk, is equally as talented and creative as her husband. Her knowledge and talents in the graphic arts have produced outstanding programs for musicals, concerts, plays and assemblies. She has provided artistic posters and programs for clubs, classes and sports. Those students who have worked under her guidance and supervision in the Media Center are well equipped to work on their own to produce a much needed commodity in school or career.

The Lowells work far beyond their so-called work day. Although their two careers are quite different, both give of their time and talents to the students and staff of El Segundo High School.

The staff of the 1980 Golden Eagle are proud to dedicate this book to Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lowell in appreciation for all their fine work.

Thank you!

Jack Lowell teaches Eighth graders about electricity before they continue with their metal shop projects.

Jack Lowell reads the Eagle Bulletin to his Eighth grade students in Metal Shop, one of his tougher jobs.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lowell assist students, each in their own way. The 1980 Golden Eagle Staff thanks them for all their hard work. Thanks, Lowells.

Jacqueline Lowell shows her versitility by fixing an overhead-view projector. You're doing fine, Mrs. Lowell, keep it up!

Above: Jacqueline Lowell smiles as she reflecrs on the years she has helped the school personnel and students. Left: Mrs. Lowell goes over some papers for a reacher.

So we changed, this year of 1979-80. We failed in some endeavors but we succeeded in others. We experienced the joy and pain of growing up and changing from a child to a young adult. We learned new knowledge, mastered new skills, changed old ideas and traditions for new ones. We have discovered that the only constant is change. Like Neptune rising from the sea, we will meet the formidable changes with strength and courage. Our location, bordering the Pacific, makes us part of the ocean. Since some part of all our lives is effected by the ocean, our lives will be similar to THE CHANGING TIDES.

RALLIES PROMOTE SPIRIT AT ESHS

For the first football rally at El Segundo High School, Laura Pelzman, Jill Samuels, Carolyn Mitchell, Stephanie Salvatierra and Robin Nivans present their first skit "the Twelve Days of Hell Week."

Laura Pelzman ties-up Keith Nadel for one of the class competition races in one of the spirit rallies at El Segundo High.

As Dave Brown estimates his run on the course, John McNicholas and Mardi Rowson anxiously wait for the race to begin. Sue Sims looks on excitedly.

ACTIVITIES

ACTIVITIES

Top: Bill Watkins explains to Aaron Menegazzi and Mike Hurlburt why they need an off-grounds pass to leave campus during lunch. Above: Imelda McNicholas and Jaime Williams dance to some tunes at an after game dance. Dances were frequent and usually made a good fund raiser for many clubs.

Top: Carolyn Mitchell twirls her flags before a kick-off at an Eagle Football game. Carolyn along with other members of Pep Club, spread spirit at all sporting events at home. Above: While the Band plays on, anxious students wait in the crowded gym for a Pep Club skit at a rally.

Rallies help produce school spirit for the Friday night games. Varsity team members wear their jerseys and create much noise and enthusiasm while Tiffany Mutton, Sheree DeMarc, Mara McAllister and Jill Samuels seem less enthusiastic about the rally at El Segundo High.

Clyde Dougherty begins the rally with an opening speech before introducing captains Dave Mote and Jay Bushrow.

Marcia Bradley and Charlotte Lassos "show their stuff" in the Homecoming rally. This was a good rally in which pep club represented the other team in a very unique way.

Spirit creates pride

Rallies were a combination of good humor and fun. Starting the season, pep club put on their first skit, "the Twelve Days of Hell Week" which put everyone in the mood for the first home Friday night football game. Their other rallies were equally good and brought much spirit. The participation of the students at rallies was greatly improved since last year and helped promote spirit and pride for the upcoming game. There were still those students who thought the rallies were a waste of time and did not go. But, in the end, the majority had pride and spirit and showed it!!!

ASSEMBLIES CREATE A FUN ATMOSPHERE

One of the mimes warms up for the pantomime assembly. Students enjoy seeing him act.

Roxanne Rill, Julie Nurminen, Eileen Davidson, Monica Walpuski, Camella Krebs and Susan Cleere perform at the Christmas choral assembly.

Madrigal Choir: Tim Wefel, Linda Cleere, Teri Schrader, Brian Carr, Kay Erdwinn, Rob Nye, Brian Kennedy, Lisa Cason, Christie Dunkel, Nancy Peterson, Kelly Pickard, Marcia Bradley.

A change of pace for fun.

What was all that noise coming from the auditorium? "Power Pack" assembly? Explain, please. Three screens changing pictures with music and narrations all at once? Sounds good. And the John Goddard assembly with his personal movies about his trip down the Nile was interesting. As I remember he is always encouraging students to be more tolerant of other races, and nationalities and to respect wildlife too. Oh, yeah, those mimes were really great, and the music departments put on a good show at Christmas time for us. Assemblies surely were a welcome change in our otherwise routine school day, weren't they?

Diane Peterson, Susan Cleere, Camella Krebs, Mary Hoffman and Karen Preston peer out at the audience.

SADIE HAWKINS DANCE IS A SUCCESS

Toes keep a'rocking

Hey, there! You with the bare feet and over-alls, where have you been? To the Sadie Hawkins dance? Oh, yeah, I remember seeing those cute bids shaped like a barn and all those special activities advertising the dance for Saturday, September 8th, in the boys' gym. Let's see, they had a corn-on-the-cob eating contest, an egg toss and other fun events, didn't they? And the gals asked the boys out this time. They dressed like hillbillies and had a great, old time. Heard they had free cookies and punch too. The Student Government and Mr. Peterson did a pretty terrific job, didn't they?

Streamers, balloons, painted barnyard scenes on the walls and bales of hay created a real country atmosphere at the Sadie Hawkins dance. Students wore western garb and had a real fine time.

Mary Bell and Tina Dornblaser show everyone that they have the homecoming spirit as they dress exactly alike for twin day on Wednesday.

Mike Gallo gets into the spirit of homecoming as he dresses like his favorite punk rock star on Tuesday.

One of the more popular spirit activities that everyone seems to enjoy is musical chairs. Rob Laffoon leads the chorus that sang the songs for the game.

Larry Sheldon and Stephanie Salvatierra kiss after being married. They were just one of the many couples getting married.

Kelly Snow seems to act strange when she puts her sunglasses on, but at least she has school spirit.

Karin Johnson and Rina Olson show that they have the homecoming spirit, as they wear their hats and sunglasses and watch the band that was performing on Thursday.

HOMECOMING BUILDS SCHOOL SPIRIT

The 1979 Homecoming Winning Float-The seniors created the MGM Lion which after weeks of hard work won with a first place.

"That's Hollywood"

Homecoming week was filled with fun and excitement for everyone. Pep Club planned activities to raise spirit all week. The week started with Monday being Joe Namath Jock Day where everyone dressed up like their favorite jock. Tuesday was Punk Rock Day and everyone dressed like a punk rock star. Wednesday was twin day and everyone grabbed their best friend and tried to find clothes that were exactly alike so they could show they had school spirit. On Thursday, whether it was sunny or not, everyone walked around with their hat and sunglasses. And Friday was the traditional blue and gold day. Friday the weddings took place at lunch. All the guys grabbed their favorite girl and got married.

Homecoming night was a very exciting evening for everyone. It started at 6:00 pm with the traditional parade down Main Street, showing off the floats that each class made. Along with the floats were the Royal Court and the Grand Marshall. At half time the Royal Court was reintroduced and at that time Lori O'Neil was crowned by last year's queen Julie Hurlburt. The night was very eventful and will always be remembered.

Erin Douglass and Michele Steele take a break from cheering as they watch the fireworks show that went on at halftime on Homecoming night.

Lori O'Neil sits proudly in her thrown at the homecoming game after being crowned by last year's queen, Julie Hurlburt.

Homecoming night is a time for alumni cheerleaders to come back and cheer. Janet Gherardi is seen here with Robin Nivans and Charlotte Lassos.

A SURE BET!

Unforgettable night

"ALL MY LOVE" was the theme for the 1979 Coronation. Held on Saturday night, October 20th, at the Hollywood Race Track Carriage Room, the semi-formal dance proved to be one of the most unforgettable dances of the year, thanks to the Junior Class and their advisor, Mr. Peterson, who sponsored the dance.

Students danced to the sounds of Razu, socialized with each other over Cokes and Seven-Up, and even watched the harness races going on at the time.

After the announcement of the Royal Court at 10:30 pm, Homecoming Queen Lori O'Neil and King Dave Mote and the rest of the court were led to the winner's circle where they had their picture taken with the winning horse and driver of the last race of the night.

Each girl received a blue velvet rose as a momento of this unforgettable night.

Chris Saunders and Bobby Hutton seem to be enjoying themselves as they take a break from dancing to sit down and rest for a minute at the 1979 Coronation.

Eric Mellin, Erin Douglass, Carri Sheldon, George Merritt, Sheri Johnson, Brooks Douglass, Kent Buchanan and Angela Wray seem to be having a really good time.

Lori O'Neil and Dave Mote stand together proudly at the Coronation after being announced the Homecoming King and Queen.

ESHS SUDENTS

Right: Stacey Wills, Lori O'Neil, and April Westover put a little spirit into decorating the Christmas tree. AFLOAT IN THE SEA OF CHANGES

Tracy Sherrill and other spirited students work diligently in the food booth to make money for the Junior Prom. That's Mr. Peterson supervising.

ESHS Spirit never sinks.

In a time when the price of gold and gasoline was changing every day, when Prom bids were hovering around $50, and when having a snazzy new pair of roller skates was almost as important as having a new pair of shoes, the students of El Segundo High School felt they could always count on good old ESHS to remain the one constant factor in their lives. Wrong! In September they found many changes including the new principal, James Perino, and a new group of people called eighth graders on campus. They found a few new faces in the offices and the classrooms. They found a whole new school year of changes in store for them. The band and choral groups moved into the new music building. Photography classes re-opened second semester. Campus was closed, supposedly. They had a new final schedule. Because of the illness of so many teachers, they found new substitutes a way of life. But the Eagles adjusted and kept their heads above water, for the most part. A few had their feathers dampened, but they managed to land safely on shore by June. What a year it was!

Mr. Perino, principal, takes time to have a friendly chat with Jim Parker about spirit.

Rachel Simons gets a lift out of selling balloons on Homecoming night. Rachel is a spirited student.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT TRIES HARD

Mike Harrop leads

"We, the students of El Segundo High School, wishing to maintain student activities, to promote school spirit, and to create an enjoyable atmosphere at El Segundo High School, through the work of students, faculty members, and administrators, do draft this school Constitution to give direction to the students of that organization."

So begins the Constitution of Student Government Class. The members met once a day in a crowded classroom full of clamor and confusion. Mike Harrop led the meetings, assisted by their advisor Richard Peterson. Bill Watkins, Activities Director, also aided the students while teaching with Mr. Peterson. This class had two main goals for the year; they hoped to restore the open-campus policy and come up with a plan for reducing vandalism. In addition to these goals, the class hoped to increase communication with the student body as a whole.

Student Body President Mike Harrop worked hard to better the school. He spent many long hours trying to resolve the closed-campus policy. All of us felt that he did a fine job as President.

Jamie Williams pays close attention to what is being said; she wants to hear all the news.

Lori O'Neil thoroughly enjoys being in Student Government class. She says, "Hey, it's great!"

Bill Watkins demands an explanation from President Mike Harrop for an extensive bill. Mike answers, while shrugging his shoulders, "Well . . . I don't know!?" Richard Peterson scratches his head saying, "Well now, let me see . . ."

WE'VE GOT SPIRIT, HOW ABOUT YOU?

All right, let's go!

1979-1980 was ESHS' year for cheering. Pep Club put emphasis into getting the crowd cheering with them. With Drill Team and Band helping, everyone was having fun. Bill Watkins, Pep Club's sponsor, liked the enthusiasm of the girls while doing the rallies. Pep Club supported every sport at ESHS. April Westover, Pep Club president, kept the girls in high spirits. The girls went to Loyola Marymount University for camp last summer to learn new cheers and skits. Varsity cheered for victory all the way. Song and Flags were original in trying out some routines on the crowd. One favorite cheer was "Who's that team thats moving slow?". Cheering for El Segundo High is all right!

Carrie Watkins and Robin Nivans cheer with Varsity Alumnae Janet Gerardi during Homecoming.

Songleaders Marcia Bradley and Regina Rill have a lot of fun cheering in front of the crowd.

JV Cheerleaders look gazingly over Eagle goalpost, hoping to get an extra point after the touchdown.

Mara McAllister, Jill Samuels, Valerie Guy and Jean Moore wait for the bus to take them to cheer at CIF Water Polo Championship game.

JV Cheer-Front row: Angela Wray, Stephanie Salvatierra, Erin Douglass, Michele Steele. Second row: Jamie Williams, Theresa Montecalvo, Laura Pelzman.

Carolyn Mitchell, Jill Samuels, Mara McAllister, and Janine Tschumi, ripple their flags.

Varsity Cheerleaders hope the Eagles can shake their caboose and make a touchdown during a game against Aviation High School.

Mr. Watkins thinks Pep Club is an organization that helps promote pride and spirit at school.

Marching on!

If you listen closely you can hear good sounds coming out of Mr. Tash's music room. He is busy teaching his band class for the next football game half-time entertainment. He has his students practice marching in step with the beat while Kelly Pickard leads the way. During half-time the band performs exciting music that makes the crowd feel happy and confident that our Eagles will be the winning team.

34 Angels march

"Thank heaven for little girls" for they grow up to become members of ESHS Drill Team. At least 34 of them did this year. The 25 new girls, 8 rank leaders, head leader, and 2 colonels practiced many hours in the summer and fall to polish their performances for half-times. The girls even choreographed 11 of the routines. On Homecoming Friday, Drill Team decorated the Main Hall with blue and gold crepe paper for the annual Hall of Fame. They welcomed students and staff with songs, cheers, and good old ESHS pride. They sold spirit ribbons and tumblers to defray their expenses. Sabrina Hulsey, Cammy Nealeigh, and Sandi Behrmann were largely responsible for the successful year of Drill Team.

SERVING EVERYONE

Trying harder

Key Club never stopped working when school let out in June. They worked a food booth on the fourth of July and made $202. Two days later President John Simons and Vice President Mitch Mahony attended the annual International Convention to learn more about Key Club in general and new ways to serve the community. Twice during the summer, The Board met to discuss how these ideas could be used in the club this year. During the school year Key Club sold programs at Football games and planned to sell Basketball programs. Through their services to the community, they hoped that they could win an award or two at the District Convention in the Spring. Key Club tried harder this year and it showed.

Service with a smile

Epsilon Sigma is every senior girl's dream. It is a "sorority" per se. One must be a senior girl and have a grade point average of 3.0. Epsilon Sigma amended their Constitution this year. One of the changes was having the club stress service. Epsilon Sigma also wanted to attempt a fun project, a spirit project, and a service project each month. In the month of October the girls cleaned up the football field and stands as a personal favor to the school. They washed teachers' windshields and presented faculty members with favors such as decorated apples and cakes and cookies for their spirit project; and last, but not least, for their fun project they gathered for a progressive dinner. The club did many new and different things since it had a new advisor Kathryn Peterson.

GIRLS' WORK

Added the eighth

Girls, girls, and more girls were joining Girls' League meetings each Monday during lunch in Anne Lenker's room. There they planned such activities as the Senior Girl of the Month showcase, Freshmen Orientation, Big Sister-Little Sister, Halloween telegram and Homecoming carnation sales, and the annual Christmas Canned Food contest to help feed the needy for Christmas.

Girls' League was one organization where any or all girls of ESHS were welcomed to come to meet other girls and get involved in school spirit. A new change was the addition of Eighth Grade girls who could attend meetings and get involved but not hold office. President Janine Tschumi and spnsor Anne Lenker helped make it a Girls' Year.

CHANGING STUDENTS

Understanding differences

American Field Service has been at El Segundo since 1956. Jadranka Vidolin from Yugoslavia was the exchange student this year. She made her home with the Dick Work family. Like most people in a strange land, Jadranka had to adjust to our language and customs in America, especially at ESHS. She dislikes the smog found in Los Angeles area and thought we could use some more trees.

AFS also sponsored Sherry Finke, a senior from El Segundo High, for the school year in Argentina. Marcia Bradley, Karin Johnson, and Rachel Simons were candidates for next year. To raise money for these students, AFS had the annual pancake breakfast, sold school telegrams, and did many other projects both in and out of school. Terry Crystal served as the school sponsor and Mrs. Schmutz acted as the community chairperson.

PARTIES, MEETINGS, ETC.

Busy French Club

Meetings, learning cultures, social parties and fund raisers made up the schedule for French Club. But French Club fed its members more than culture. They even made and ate authentic French dishes for a French dinner as a club activity. They also went to exhibitions, movies, and French restaurants as part of their "fun" life.

French Club, however, was not all fun. They met every other Tuesday during lunch with sponsor Mrs. Wolf to discuss ways to raise money. Some fun took place during their lunch meetings as they played games and had a good time. French Club awarded medals to the top French students and presented a scholarship at awards night.

Under the guidance of president Nancy Peterson and her class officers, French Club had a fairly successful year.

"Enrichment" was the goal of Spanish Club. The main purpose of Spanish Club is to enrich the cultural understanding and appreciation of Spanish speaking countries. To achieve this enrichment members went to see the movie "El Cid" and Flamenco Dancers from Spain. They also had plans to see some operas.

The Spanish Club sold candy, light bulbs and parked cars at Homecoming to raise money for a scholarship for a deserving member. In the spring members planned an awards dinner to recognize outstanding Spanish students.

Spanish Club met every other week with sponsors Neva Hitchcock, Frank Real and president Mike Gallo for a year of change!

CSF IS NOT FOR EVERYONE

The best of ESHS

CSF isn't for everyone. The California Scholarship Federation is a club for the academically gifted. In order to be accepted into CSF one must receive 11 points. Each "A" is worth 3 points and "B'S" are 1 point. Members met once a month to socialize on their own level; they also had other activities such as a progressive dinner. CSF also helped tutor other ESHS students. Officers were President Laura LaCognata, V-President, Kelly Pickard, and Secretary Karin Johnson.

Talent and more

Art Guild is an active club for the artistic students of ESHS. This talented group went on several excursions to places like the marina, the beaches, different museums and galleries to do on-sight painting, drawing, and sculpring. They also had special gatherings at which they discussed the philisophical aspects of art. Their fund raising activities, usually bake slaes, were full of the spirit that made this fine club.

Mr. Kerker, a science teacher, took his time to sponsor a club for students and faculty that spiritually enlightened them. The club met on Fridays to talk about the moral and spiritual aspects of life. Many of its members attended Saturday meetings with those from other schools. Officers were President Greg Sigvaldson, Vice President Jayne Andrews, and Secretary Lee Francis.

A DEADLY DRAMA TAKES PLACE

Who did it??

Who did it? Who was the guilty party? Drama Club, that's who. Drama Club presented Agatha Christie's Ten Little Indians, a murder-mystery suspense that played on the nights of November 29th and 30th at 8:00 in the auditorium. Director Wallace Duffy called for play tryouts early in October and then continued with play practices until opening night. He also supervised the stage crew who built sets, worked the lights and sound, and helped with the total production. Although drama was not everyone's bag, those students who worked with Mr. Duffy on the play enjoyed the opportunity to perform on stage. They looked forward to being in the spring play, no matter how much work it required.

Marcus Clark, as Phillip Lombard, is stunned to find out that he is accused of murder. Craig Voight, Steve Cowan, and Tracy Buck share his concern.

The Good Times

"Hey, what are you doing?" Answers to this and other questions seemed to be the topic of conversation around ESHS between classes and even during classes at times. On week-ends, after a football or basketball game, students usually went to the dance or cruised around in their car. Eventually most ended up at Taco Bell. Many week-ends they went skiing (when there was enough snow) or surfing or shopping or just sun bathing on Grand Beach when it was really hot. Always, of course, they had parties. Parties could consist of nothing more than a few people getting together at someone's house for drinks and talk or parties could mean real food and even a birthday cake. But always there was talk. Boys, girls, who is dating whom, who is taking whom to the dance and why? Whether they watched Z channel movies or gossiped late into the night, students enjoyed being together, exchanging news and views. At home or school, students were laid back and cool.

Ups and downs

For the El Segundo High School Water Polo team, it was an up and down year. Before the South Bay Water Polo Tournament, they had a 3-2 record and had had a tough time beating Redondo and Notre Dame, two relatively weak teams. Then in their third game of the South Bay Tourney they played 4-A powerhouse and Bay League rival Mira Costa. When Pat Andrews, El Segundo's best player, fouled out after less than three minutes, it looked like it was going to be a long game. But the rest of the team picked up the slack and upset the Mustangs in overtime 10-9. El Segundo took second place in the Tourney after losing to Aviation in the championship game, 14-10. The next two games were lost but probably should have been won. Beverly Hills defeated El Segundo 9-6 in a poorly played game. It was the first Norman conquest over the Eagles since 1976. Harvard was then taken too lightly and beat El Segundo 15-8. Palos Verdes came to town and were held scoreless throughout the first half by a strong Eagle defense. P.V. rallied only to come up short as the Eagle Aquamen held them off 9-7. After two losses to Mira Costa and then Hoover,El Segundo needed to win their last two League games against Rolling Hills and Miraleste to go to CIF Play-offs. Rolling Hills fell easily 15-8. Miraleste also wanted to go to CIF. They had to beat El Segundo. The Eagle Defense took the Marauder offense apart and Mitch Mahony chalked up 15 saves as El Segundo gained a CIF berth for the second straight year. "Our defense was so great that Miraleste lost their poise and composure," said Coach Henry Stuart. "If we had played like that against Edison (in CIF) we would have beaten them" But they didn't play like that and they didn't win. Edison ripped El Segundo 15-6. However, Pat Andrews was named Honorable Mention All-CIF. El Segundo ended the season with a 3-2 League record to end the season at 9-8.

FROSH/SOPH TRIES EXTRA HARD

Do well at first

In the beginning of the year the Frosh/Soph Water Polo team followed in the Varsity's foorbsteps. They won three of their first four games over Redondo, Notre Dame and Santa Monica, but lost to Aviation. Against Glendale, the Frosh/Soph staged a dramatic comeback. Behind at one point by three goals, Jeff Siadek scored the tying goal with five seconds remaining in regulation time. The game remained tied throughout overtime until Don Pickard fired one in from outside at the buzzer to win the game. In their remaining games they either routed their opponent or lost by only a few goals with the exception of Beverly Hills.

"They just lacked experience," said Coach Henry Stuart. "They will do well at the Varsity Level. Overall, it wasn't that bad a season." The Frosh/Soph ended the season with a 7-5 overall record and a 2-3 League record.

RUNNERS SHOW DESIRE

To maintain tradition

Varsity cross country team runners showed a lot of character and desire this running season. Unfortunatly, none of the teams were able to qualify for the C.I.F. prelims. This was the first time in six years that the teams didn't have a representative. Scott Doukakis and Chris Goodwin won awards for the most valuable runners. Chris Goodwin came in 4th place and also received a medal at the league finals. The varsity team ended in 5th place.

EAGLES WIN NONE

FOOTBALL FUMBLES

In spite of enthusastic coaches, hard practices, and real talent, the Eagles remained winless throughout the league games. But they managed to tie two games. These ties as well as some losses occured in the last few seconds of the games. Although these last few seconds proved to be nerve racking for coaches, players, and fans alike, both enjoyed the excitement and tension in the air.

At the beginning of the football season it seemed as if it was going to be one of those years. Indeed it was. The season would be considered far from successful. In short, football fumbled. Although the league record concluded with no wins, six losses and two ties, the 79-80 football season would be remembered by many players because it would be the last time they would be a part of a football team.

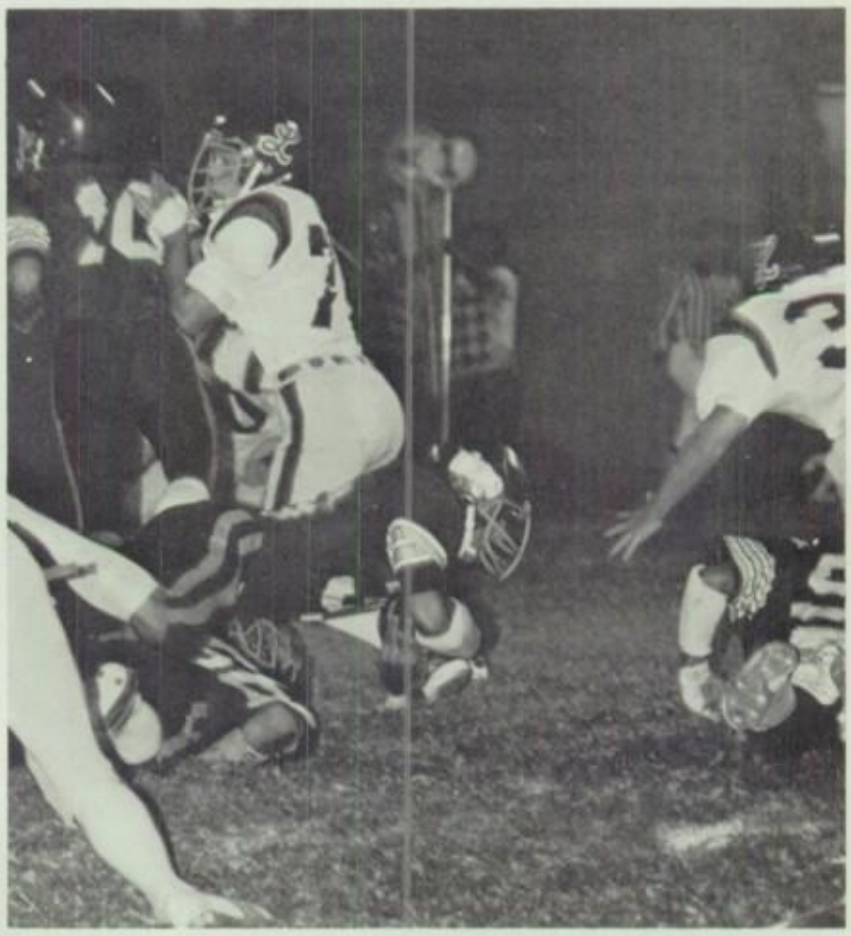
Joe Caravello heads towards trouble as he stares into the eyes of some not so friendly opponents who are on the verge of tackling him.

No. 10 Bren Conner proves to be too much for a Beverly Hills' would-be tackler as he outsmarts and outruns him and leaves him buried in the sod.



Joe Caravello does not manage to get much yardage as he stumbles over one of the linemen that is supposedly blocking, not resting.

YET TO ENDURE

Eagles fly low

Half of the Frosh/Soph football team were experienced players, yet they had many problems getting started. Once they got their act together, they improved, but finished the season with 2 wins and 5 losses in league play. One of the more commendable performances was against Lennox whom they creamed 26-0.

When asked about what characterized the Frosh/Soph team, Coach Newell said, "Pride, determination and character best described the team. Instead of quitting at times that seemed hopeless, they demonstrated their courage by sticking it out and by learning from their mistakes."

Coach Steve Newell takes time out to give his quarterback Ron Moralli some expert advice that could easily influence the outcome of the game.

As the sprinklers turn on unexpectedly for several minutes El Segundo High's Frosh/Soph offensive unit gets a chance to rest and to cool off.

The Frosh/Soph offensive team huddles up and talks about some strategies that could mean the difference between a victory and a loss.

A play that could have been converted into six points is broken up as a result of much confusion and misunderstanding between linemen and running backs.

While some players look engrossed in the football game, others couldn't care less what is to happen during the remaining seconds of a game.

VARSITY GOES FOR IT

But stops at the top

The Varsity Volleyball team came in second in Pioneer League and went all the way to CIF. Losing their first two league games to Leuzinger and Torrance, the girls pulled together and played as one. Their closeness and unity is what made it happen; they went to CIF. They won their first CIF play-off game, but lost their second to Brawley. With a strong defense they were able to keep the opposing team working for their win. Though they lost, the girls learned a valuable experience of teamwork and group spirit.

With 7 wins and 5 losses the girls Junior Varsity Volleyball team placed third in Pioneer League. The team had only two returning players and a new coach; they really had to learn what teamwork was all about. With rough practices, starting before school, and a strong defense the team really pulled together and had a successful year.

Easy climb to the top

Team effort and desire to win resulted in the Varsity Basketball team placing second next to Hawthorne in Pioneer League 1A. As a result of their 11 win and 2 loss season, the team earned the right to enter the CIF play-offs. In the first round, played on the home court against Paraclete High, the Eagles won and advanced to the second round with Santa Clara of Oxnard where they lost 50-70.

One of the highlights of the year was when El Segundo lost to first place Hawthorne by only 2 points.

Although Coach Joe Hern said that there were "No individuals, just a team" he did praise the outstanding performances of Mike Falvey, Dave More, and Matt Heck. Mike made All Pioneer League 1st team and Dave and Matt played on the All League 2nd team. It was truly an outstanding season for the ES Varsity Basketball team.

ESHS JUMPS TO VICTORY

No. 32 Evan Escobar barely misses a jump ball in the second round CIF games against Santa Clara

No. 32 Evan Escobar jumps easily over Aviation's head as the El Segundo Eagles continues on to victory.

No. 20 Mike Falvey pushes away Aviation's 51 after a jump ball in which Mike Falvey got the ball first.

FROSH-SOPH LEARNS THEIR GAME

ES's No. 35, Jaime Higbee, goes for a rebound and snatches the ball with opposition on all sides.

The Frosh-Soph had a dissapointing season after coming in 6th place, winning only one game and losing 11. Although they played some good ball they never seemed to come out on top. The team was lacking in ball control but in the victory over Hawthorne they displayed better ball control and shooting percentage. They threw away passes and commited minor violations that caused turnovers.

1 Win 11 Losses

ES's No. 11, Ron Morralli, is free and clear of opposition as he shoots an easy lay-up shot.

EAGLES CURSED

. . . But win a few

Although the girls began the basketball season with a loss to Miraleste, they still looked impressive, and the season still seemed promising. In time, however, a curse apparently fell on the varsity team.

The last quarter of several games appeared to fail them. In many instances the games were almost identical. The team's lead suddenly vanished into thin air and players found themselves on the bench unable to play because they fouled out. Although the girls overcame many of their obstacles and won a few games, the coach, players, and fans alike felt disapointed over the 2-10 record.

EXPERIENCE

. . . Not enough

Despite the inexperience, El Segundo's Girls' JV Basketball team managed to beat Palos Verdes and prove that determination can be an important factor in the outcome of a game.

At times, when it was obvious that no hope existed for winning, the girls kept together and finished the games without losing their morale. Although it was not the best of seasons, both coach and players gained experience.

Good and Bad News

"Exceptional" would best describe this year's Wrestling team. They won every meet this year except the final League Tournament. During the season, Harvard and Miraleste lost to El Segundo 18-47 and 18-54 respectively. Both were spectacular defeats to our team. By losing the final League Tournament to Harvard, El Segundo had to share the victory cup with them. Most people thought this was unfair. The absence of key player Steve Rex was the main reason for the defeat. Steve couldn't participate in the meet due to a dislocated shoulder. This Kind of injury disabled another player, Rex Fowler, during the season. The final League Tournament ended with El Segundo lagging 144-122.

Team Captain Steve Rex has the looks of a champion after leading his team to an undefeared season of ten wins and no losses.

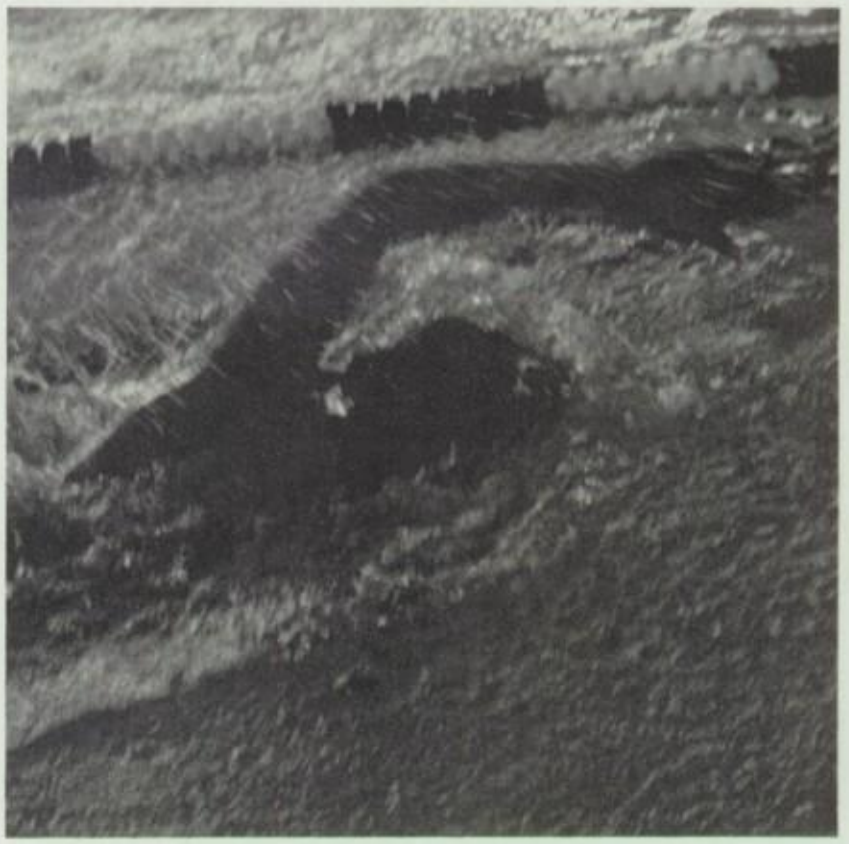
Starting over

Starting the season in Mid February was something new to ESHS swimmers. CIF once again changed swim season to a different time of the year for the second straight time. This year it went from Mid February to Mid May. In the opening Meet, Loyola defeated El Segundo by only 5 points, 86 to 81. However, in their next meet they were routed by Notre Dame 67-16. Culver City came to town and barely beat the Eagle Aquamen by two points, 86, to 84. The Centaurs won the meet on the last relay.

Training for the swim team was vigorous. They swam approximately 5 miles a day and also had two daily work-outs, one in the morning from 6:00-7:00 and another after school until 4:30. Weight training took place every other day to build strength more than endurance.



Lee Davis, 400 free relay anchorman, churns through the water easily while leading the relay to victory. The free relay ends each meet.

TRACK SPIRIT MATCHES ABILITY

Keep on tracking !

Track Team started the season with approximately 75 runners, jumpers, pole vaulters and shot putters. Varsity and Frosh-Soph had both girls and boys on each team. Practices started in February, but an extremely rainy season, almost 25 inches, caused delays and cancellations in training and meets. The first meet with St. Monica proved to be a victory for El Segundo, winning all 3 levels. Some of the outstanding participants of the boys' Varsity were Chris Goodwin, Chris Woodcock, Fran Moore, Erick Carlson, and Greg Schmidt. In the Frosh-Soph level Kent Buchanan, Bob Kechter, and Mike Tablada were noteworthy. Girls Varsity had Jill Draper, Marla Fisher, Dena Romero, Julie Vogt, and Christi Bennett, who lead the way to victory. Track Team coaches Terry Crystal and Steve Newell predicted the team would have a better chance of placing in the league finals because the attitude and spirit of the teams matched their abilities!

TENNIS DROPS A LEVEL

Players must work

"If the tennis team is to be competitive in the Pioneer League this year, they must work hard," said Coach Wally Duffy in his first year as tennis coach at El Segundo High School. The excessive rains, however, made it impossible to practice or play much tennis at the beginning of the season. The players tried to keep in condition by running in the gym and playing tennis between the rains.

Returning players Mike Harrop and Mike Gallo hoped they could win the league this year since the Pioneer League was dropped from a 2-A level to 1-A level in tennis. El Segundo lost the first pre-season game against Morningside which was a top-seeded 3-A team, but they did beat Culver City in another non-league game. In league play, the Eagles won the first 3 matches before losing to Hawthorne but bounced back to beat Bishop Montgomery considered by Coach Duffy to be the toughest competitor in the league. At mid-season the tennis team had a 6-1 record in league play and an over-all 7-3 record for the season. The tennis team was well on its way to having a successful season.

Bren Conner, Phil Norris, Mike Doucette, and Scott Gulick were pitchers for the 1980 team.

Six of the 15 returning players are veterans of Varsity Baseball. "We are going after CIF Championship this year just like we took it last year" remarked one of the players. Another one said, "We won't stop trying until after we have won it or lost it".

OFF TO A WET START

Ten girls return

Girls softball got off to a slow, wet start. Over 24 inches of rain, much of it during February and March, prevented the team from practicing and postponed many of their games until too late for printing in the yearbook.

Out of the 13 girls on the Varsity team, 10 were on last year's team, so Coach Don Woodsmall hoped for a successful year, if and when the rains stopped.

Some of the players expected to do outstanding work and have a good year were Lesle McIntosh, Mardi Rowson and Marybeth Southern.

RAIN DELAYES GAMES

Anxiously waiting

Girls' JV softball got off to a late start. Their games had been delayed due to the large amount of rain that had fallen during the beginning of the season.

They practiced hard and waited patiently and nervously for their first game. They were anxious to try out the new game field they were going to use for their home games.

Coach Joe VanPelt worked the girls hard and yelled at them when they goofed, but he also praised them when they did well. The girls knew all the work and yelling would pay off in the end.

So rallied the cries of the Senior students at El Segundo High School. Although there wasn't a rhyme to go along with their graduating year, the Seniors got along just fine. They made it through term papers, college applications, S.A.T. and A.T.C. tests, homework, jobs, and much more to walk proudly under those "golden arches" and graduate on that fine, fair day, June 11, 1980.

THRILLING HOME FOOTBALL GAMES

Seniors love dances after

September, October, and part of November were football, Marching Band, Pep Club, and Drill Team nights! These groups, consisting mainly of Seniors, worked hard and long to plan, practice, and perform Friday nights, especially Friday night home games. Rallies were generally held just before lunch. Sorry to say, many Seniors, feelign a litle too mature or suffering from "Senioritis," ditched the rallies and headed for home or an early lunch.

After-game dances were well attended by Seniors though. Dancing to a live band, Seniors had a wild time. Basketball season was not as thrilling, but there were times when one could get a kick out of watching a game and going to a dance. Then it was spring and baseball and track and Seniors really got that odd feeling that one day soon, not too far away, they would be graduating, gone and forgotten. It was a bitter-sweet thought, but real!!

Football games seem to be a time when everyone gets together with friends as Stacey Trapnell and Chris Woodcock are seen at a home game.

SENIORS ATTEND LAST HOMECOMING

Some anxious to leave

On Homecoming Night all Seniors woke up to the sad realization that this would be the last home game during their high school years. Many were glad that they would soon be leaving, but others were doubtful. They had shared many times of joy and pain inside those ESHS walls.

The Eagles were defeated that night, but Seniors enjoyed being with their friends of old who returned to catch up on the latest gossip, socialize and watch the game. They also liked talking about college and places far away and laughing about memories recalled.

Sitting there, thinking, they came to understand that on Homecoming night next year they would be happily returning to their private little high school world.

Lynn O'Neil and Mary Stewart find a few minutes in between classes to stop and discuss the busy day that is going to be ahead of them.

SENIORS CHERISH SOME FOND MEMORIES

Those happy days are yours

School days are supposed to be the best days of your life, or so someone once said. They are days of no cares or worries, days of fun and games and days to cherish as fond memories. 180 days of the 1979 80 school year were partial ly just that with Football games, Homecoming Week, Coro nation and after-game dances, assemblies, rallies and secret crushes on certain classmates. But then came reality. Classes, crabby teachers, boring homework, and failing grades. Work, work, work! All seniors ever did was work. Of course, Christmas vacation meant skiing and shopping, holidays in February held trips to Disneyland or movies, and Easter was a time to bathe in the sun at Palm Springs or the Colorado River. And there were those super parties on weeks ends and days when the crabby teachers let you sit and visit in class and you received an "A" on your home work. Every day wasn't all bad.

Brian Markle studies his notes before a big test in English, as he knows this is his last year and that grades really count for college.

A FEW TRAINED EARLY BY S.C.R.O.C.

Work experience beneficial

Many seniors were on the Work Experience program. This "class" allowed many seniors to receive graduation credit for working. These seniors had to turn in assignments and reports from their employers. Many El Segundo students worked in the Fox Hills Mall at The Footlocker or The Broadway. However, a few worked up-town in El Segundo or in Westchester while others worked at The Hawthorne Mall.

Another school program was SCROC. Both Seniors and Juniors were eligible for this opportunity. SCROC trained students in many fields making them better-qualified for more and richer jobs. It also allowed them to start a long-lasting career at an early age.

Elayne Thomas, Tammy Fisher, Teri Schrader, and Diane Warren all seem to agree that the greatest thing about school is being with friends.

WHATEVER HAPPENED TO PRIVILEGES?

Just being a 1980 senior

Senior privileges have become something rare and unheard of these past few years at El Segundo High School. Having the Senior lunch line and sitting in the front rows of the auditorium at assemblies were all that existed in the non-existent senior privileges. Some Seniors left school at noon or after fifth period to head for work, a sort of privilege. They did have class meetings in Mr. Robinson's room where they discussed and settled such issues as what to do on Grad Night and Ditch Day, what kind of graduation announcements to order, and what type of gift to give to the school upon graduation. All in all, it was simply a privilege being a Senior.

Donna Perkins does not seem all that anxious to leave class, as she slowly gathers her books and gets ready to head on to her next class.

WHERE ARE ALL THE GOOD OLD DAYS?

The short-lived "big guy"

Being a Senior meant being the "big guy" on campus. It meant you could ditch assemblies or school without too much fear. It meant you could write your own notes for being absent if you were eighteen years old or you could try forging them and maybe not get caught. It meant you could be nominated for Homecoming King or Queen and given more room in the halls when you walked by! It meant you were almost an adult and a very self-reliant person. It also meant you would soon be out on your own, competing for a job or promotion. It meant you soon would be thinking of your future, a husband or wife, a home. It meant facing the problems of a troubled world, perhaps a war with Iran or Russia. All of a sudden, being a Senior wasn't quite as fun and free as it sounded. Whatever happened to those good old days of dolls, bikes, skateboards, and elementary school games? Gone forever.

Karen Preston pays close attention to her English teacher, as Howard Grey's mind seems to wonder off about the rest of his long busy day.

MONDAY MORNING—HARD TO FACE

Seniors stagger in tardy

"Buzzzzzzz! Off goes the alarm clock. Gosh, it seems as if I just went to sleep, and already it is 7:45 am. School starts in twenty-five minutes; it's Monday morning, the weekend's gone, and it's time to hit the books for the weekly grind."

While sitting in Senior English first period, Seniors felt as if class would never be over. Already there were English words to study, a paragraph to write, and twenty-five sentences to correct-all Monday night homework. Ugh!

Second period was spent in good-ol' Senior Political Behavior. How do you spell Political Behavior? B-O-R-I-N-G!!

SENIORS ARE IMPATIENT FOR LUNCH

The clock moves so slowly

Snack time finally arrived. What a break literally! Those milk and donuts never tasted better. But, oh, how fast the ten minutes flew. Once again, on to the classrooms. This time it was Student Government. There were discussions about Sadie Hawkins' Week activities and the installment of a new soda machine.

Third period seemed to move quickly enough, and then came fourth period and Band and Drill Team. Time to "blow your horn" and let off some of that pent-up steam marching. After all those academic classes it felt great to unwind.

Lunch was the time to beat the clock-race to the car or cycle and take off. Some went to Taco Bell, cruised around, or just stopped by home.

Pete Zalabak and Dave Hansen, both seniors, find time to take a short break from class to talk to Mrs. Carlson down in the media center.

A SENIOR'S DAY IS FINALLY ENDED

It's all in a day's work

Foreign language was a drag during fifth period. Who wants to know the conjugation of "to be" anyway?

Sixth period finally ended for those who were still in school. 2:20 pm at long last. Time to head for work or practice. For the workers, bagging groceries, stocking shelves, or typing letters, and work was over. For the athletes, more laps around the gym or track.

Mom made a great dinner, and although it was great to lie on the couch and watch television, someone had to write that English paragraph and do those math problems. If the grades didn't go up, the folks would blow their stack and ground you.

So another school day comes to an end. Tomorrow will inevitably be the same.

TRYING HARD TO SURVIVE HIGH SCHOOL

Seniors struggle along

After four years of working and goofing off together, seniors found that just being with friends made school worthwhile. They liked the social part of school better than the classes, homework, and rules. Getting to first period by 8:10 am was too much for many; they staggered in tardy many mornings. Second period was a drag until snack when they could scarf down food and visit with friends. The next two periods found most seniors either in Student Government, Band, or Annual, so they tolerated school until lunch. Those who returned for fifth period suffered until time to call it a day and head for home, beach, or work. Oh, the fate of being a senior.

SENIORS FILE COLLEGE APPLICATIONS

Receiving their diplomas

Hot and sunny days, temperatures in the 90's-that was November in El Segundo. Seniors skipped school to surf, sun bathe, and goof off. It was too good to be cooped up in school, listening to teachers lecture or doing math problems. Yet, all good things must come to an end, and they did. There came a day when colleges wanted applications and financial aid forms and counselors held special meetings for college-bound students to hear speakers.

So poor seniors had to fill out forms and listen to speakers and worry about S.A.T. tests and all that good stuff. But it all paid off on that day in June when the band Played "Pomp and Circumstance" and seniors marched under those flowered arches, their diplomas clutched firmly in hand.

Sheri Sumrow seems bored during an important explanation in Annual.

FORGETFUL SENIORS NOT FORGOTTEN

No portraits

Way back in August, before school started, Senior portraits were taken. Every Senior was scheduled with a day and time. This schedule did not fit in with some people and therefore they didn't have a portrait taken then or when make-ups were taken later in the year. However, some had I.D. pictures taken the previous Spring, so the Golden Eagle staff searched the archives and found these Senior pictures which appeared on their I.D. cards. Although a few are still missing, we are fortunate to present this group of "missing in action" shots.

Studying hard

Achieving A's was no problem for many of El Segundo's students. At least 25 students achieved 3.6 GPA or above, and 9 girls and 1 boy were in the top ten. These students took such challenging classes as Senior English, Chemistry, Math Analysis and a Foriegn Language, so they were not breezing through school with lazy subjects or teachers. In addition to their academic ability, These students also had school spirit. They were leaders of club and Student Government. They were members of Band, Drill Team and Chorus, and gave much to the life and spirit to ESHS. These students worked hard and prepared for the big, cruel world outside the halls and walls of school. Congratulations to a smart group of students.

Connie Streifinger also had a 3.92 which would tie her for seventh. But since she spent the past year in New Zealand, no photo was available.

WHO'S WHO IN THE SENIOR CLASS

Talented seniors graduate

Mike Harrop headed the list as Associated Student Body President, and a fine one he was as he conducted a class of 37 each third period. Seniors were also great athletes. Dave Mote was outstanding in Football, Basketball and Baseball and was elected Homecoming King. Mardi Rowson was one of the best girl athletes in a long time as she played Softball, Basketball and Volleyball. Jan Dougherty, Lori O'Neil, Teri Schrader and Elayne Thomas were also outstanding in sports. Pat Andrews, Bryan Gwinn and Steve Rex rounded out the Senior athletes. Musically talented Seniors included Lisa Cason, Linda Cleere, Christie Dunkel, Tammy Fisher, Teri Schrader, Elise Ung and Brian Waag.

THE HARD-WORKING CLASS OF 1981

Hard work pays off

All the hard work of planning the Prom and Coronation was finished for the Junior class as they became Seniors at the end of the 1980 school year. From bake sales and concession booths to selling Eagleburgers at the Friday night football games, the Junior class showed a great deal of pride towards El Segundo High. Their hard work paid off, for the Coronation was a very successful dance held at the Hollywood Race Track and the Prom proved to be a night to remember. Along with planning the two formal dances, the Juniors took an active part in Student Governemnt and many other school activities. The Juniors had a busy year but, looking back on it all, it was worth it.

CLASS OF '81 HAS SOME FUN

On their way to the library, Juniors Tammy O'Neill, Lisa Dion, and Rina Olson stop to think about their next class at El Segundo High.

Anything goes . . .

Along with all the busy work of planning the Prom and the Coronation, the Junior class also had some good times. The Powder Puff football game between the Junior and the Senior girls proved to be a very exciting evening. The participation from everyone was excellent; the boy cheerleaders made a very big hit with their original cheers and "cute" mini-skirts. The Senior girls won with a score of 14-7. Being an upperclassman had many benefits. The Juniors no longer had to worry about getting their classes during registration or being pushed around by the big-guys. It was just an all-round fun year for the class of 1981.

JUNIORS WORK THEIR WAY UP!

Working hard!

Only a Junior class meeting, but oh, what big problems to solve. Where to have the Coronation? Certainly not in the boys' gym as the PTA mothers wished but at the Hollywood Race Track, a last minute find. Then who was to work in the concession booth Friday night? Who would fry Eagle-burgers? Where will we have the Prom? Who will be archbearers? These questions were asked and answered at the Junior class meetings every week with Mr. Peterson as sponsor.

A popular place for homework seems to be the moat for Juniors Tony Nealeigh, Dave Herzog, Dave Brown and Wes Nadel.

Fun for now

Classes at El Segundo High are not all alike. The class of '81 was unique in itself. It was full of energy, sometimes too much at the wrong time. Going to weekend parties made it hard for some Juniors to come back to school on Monday morning. Keeping up grades was a big problem for those involved in sports, cheerleading, jobs or after-school activities. Looking at different colleges had everyone realizing ESHS would only be a part of their lives for one more year.

Juniors, this was their third year at ESHS and they were deeply involved in the day to day activities of our school. Serving on committees, playing on teams, and helping the underclassmen were all part of a Junior's life here at ESHS. '81 was everywhere. They were the backbone of many student organizations.

A special time

El Segundo High School became important to Juniors for they knew that the daily activities as well as the special occasions were what made up lasting memories of high school. They worked to preserve the timeless traditions of ESHS. Being a Junior was fun because the newness was gone, the prestige was there, yet they did not have the worries of a Senior.

JUNIORS MOVING ON TO BE SENIORS

The Class of "81"

Juniors waved their hands around for days letting everyone in sight know they were one step closer to being Seniors. There were still tests to pass, speeches to give, classes to attend and lectures to hear but Senior Land is just around the corner and the Juniors were preparing for it.

The year of 1981 will soon be here and those Juniors will be Seniors. At last they will be the upper classmen. They will be the ones to look up to; they will set the standards that the rest of the school will follow.

Juniors are the ones who gathered money together by having bake sales and running the snack bar at football games getting money to have the Junior Senior Prom. Juniors were those almost-seniors who worked and played hard to create a super class and Prom.

EARLY BIRDS

Selling M&M's

Although it was hot and humid in October 1979, the M&M's did not melt in the sophomores' had or anyone else's, for that matter. Sophomores started early in the school year to plan fund raisers to keep the money flowing into the class treasury. What was all this money for anyway? According to class president, Stephanie Salvatierra, it was for next year's Coronation and Prom.

The Class of '82 was eager to be Juniors, so they started early as sophomores. Early birds get the worms, but the sophomores got the money.

Two more years

Life was a little more enjoyable for the Sophomores. More active in sports and clubs than last year, they found more interest in school. They lost their shyness and were, in fact, quite at home in classes with upperclassmen. They became better acquainted with teachers and counselors. Sophomores could choose Elective English and Social Studies classes which gave them a sense of maturity. One of the highlights of the year for Sophomores was taking Driver Training and eventually getting their licenses. The only gloom was that "Buyers Beware" was required also.

Striving for class unity

"Spirit was a little low this year in the Sophomore class," said Stephanie Salvatierra, president of the class. The Sophomores did not realize that they are very close to becoming upperclassmen of the school. They thought it was going to be a breeze for the next two years. That is not true! The last two years are going to be just as busy. Just wait till they are seniors; their spirit will be as high as a soaring eagle!

SOPHOMORES HAVE STATUS PROBLEMS

Middle class students

Middle-class citizens is what Sophomores thought of themselves. Seniors and Juniors were upperclassmen, and Eighth-graders and Freshmen were definitely underclassmen. So that left Sophomores right smack in the middle. Even though they didn't get the best seats at assemblies, they didn't have to stand in the back as some other underclassmen did. Closed campus and long lunch lines weren't too well liked. At least they would soon be getting their drivers' license and getting out of that middle class, one more step closer to being upperclassmen.

What a difference

What a difference a year made in the appearance and actions of the Sophomores, the class of 1982. No longer the lowest of the totem pole, they gained a little confidence in what they did. The girls tried out for Drill Team and Pep Club. The boys were usually the stars of the Frosh/Soph teams, or if really talented, they could push for Varsity. Although most of the first choices for English classes were closed by the time they registered, they could choose what CWA classes to take, or whether or not to take more math. Some could even be teachers' aids. By the end of their Sophomore year, they were ready to assume the responsibility of planing the Coronation and Prom. What a Change!

NEW EXPERIENCES FOR FRESHMEN

Freshmen struggle

Survival was uppermost in the minds of the Freshmen as they struggled through the ordeal of self-scheduling that hot day in September. The gym was a maze of tables and long lines and finding classes for each of the six periods in a day was almost impossible. After that horrifying experience, Ninth graders had to shuffle through the crowded halls and strung-out campus to find their right classes. Most of them found Mr. Doughtery and Mr. Stevenson for Freshmen Studies, and everyone found Mr. Snelgrove and Mr. Sochor for English because they were familar faces from Junior High last year. Tracking down Mr. Bolyanatz or Mr. Whittington for Science and Math was another thing, and going to the first rally almost did them in! Freshmen definitely had many new experiences but they survived and are well and living AT ESHS for three more years.

FRESHMEN FIT IN

Freshmen found it! They found El Segundo High School a big change from their quiet, sheltered life at junior high. They found that being a Freshman was rather scary at first with all those big Seniors glaring at them and breathing down their necks. They found the buildings were confusing, teachers more demanding, and everything a little overwhelming. They also found that a few of their teachers from junior high were now teaching at the high school because of the closing of the junior high last year. They found old friends and made new friends. They found our high school wasn't too bad and that Seniors really weren't monsters and that life at E.S.H.S. was rather pleasant at times. They lost their fear and shyness and by June they were brash and bossy Sophomores. Three more years and they would be glaring seniors too! Freshmen found it-and they lost it too!

Free time for Freshmen meant being with their friends, roller skating, going to the beach and going to the movies. They listened to Styx, Led Zeppelin and Fleetwood Mac. They watched "Mork and Mindy", "Eight is Enough," "Laverne and Shirley," and "Charlie's Angels." They enjoyed football games, after-game dances and assemblies. Their favorite classes were P.E., Algebra, Homemaking and Freshman Studies. Freedom to choose teachers and classes made freshmen opinionated, but happy.

Variety makes it nice

Freshmen experienced many different moments in their first year at El Segundo High School. The most drastic was registering for classes in September and February. School work was harder and the halls were more crowded than life at the junior high. Making new friends with upperclassmen and having more choices of sports and extra activities made up for the lousy seats at assemblies. In spite of all the changes and new experiences, the class of 1983 survived to become sophomores.

WHERE DO THEY COME FROM

Life cycle of freshmen

Where do Freshmen come from? Certainly from the junior high, but even more, he or she comes from a world of confused, shy people trying to make it in the noisy world of ESHS. In September these students were skinny, little kids who didn't like vegetables and thought they had to eat pizza for all three meals, and who thought Disney movies were the greatest. Suddenly, by the time Coronation rolled around in October, these same urchins had cleaned up, borrowed or bought a new outfit, gotten a date and gone dancing. By December they forgot about soccer games and Disney and took a date to the Sadie Hawkins Dance. And before too long, the same scared Freshmen were able to run down the halls, saunter into class tardy and look a Senior in the eye! Today a Freshmen, tomorrow a Sophomore! Oh, happy day.

MOVING AROUND

When will it ever be?

From Richmond Street to the Junior High when sixth graders, from Junior High to high school when 8th graders, when would the class of 1984 ever be the "big wheels" on campus? Well, not this year. They were the very lowest on the totem pole. They were the under, under classmen. They felt they were pushed, shoved and ignored at times, but in reality, 8th graders adjusted very well once they were used to the new surroundings. Anyway, they had a lot to learn and a long way to go before they could be the leaders, so they just laid back and accepted the challenges of living in the sea of change!

Here we are!

Orwell's book 1984 did not materialize completely, but the class of 1984 materialized on our campus with the closing of the junior high school last spring due to lack of funds and declining enrollment. In the wake of Proposition 13, which cut taxes and lowered spending, and other legislative acts, El Segundo Junior High had to close its doors and move the students to other schools. The 8th graders moved into the East Wing of the high school. Although most of their classes such as math, English and social studies were held on that side of the campus, electives such as art, music and a few others were in the West Wing so they became a part of our daily life. It wasn't easy being an 8th grader, and this change was just another wave to ride until next year!

CLASS OF 1984 HAS TALENT!

They mingle well

Every class has its leaders and special talents. The class of 1984 was no exception. Class officers participated in Student Government class with all the other school leaders. Eric Shaffer braved the storm to join the Annual Staff and make sure the 8th graders were represented in the Golden Eagle. Eric Johnson, Steve Hooper and Teri Shober were members of the marching band. Recreation Park sponsored dances especially for the lower classmen. They participated in the rallies, assemblies, dances and other school activities. Life at ESHS may not have been easy all the time, but the 8th graders survived and went forward to grade nine with a smile!

James Perino, ESHS'S new principal was met with the awesome duty of shaping a school after a summer of very drastic changes.

STAFF OF STRIFE

Looking bad, sad and confused, 65 teachers, administrators, and secretaries, scattered over East Wing and West Wing rooms, greeted over 1100 students on Tuesday, September 11th.

They looked sad because vacations were over and they had 36 weeks of grading papers and teaching classes before them.

They looked bad because they were confused and their school rooms were in utter chaos. Changes in personnel, rooms and schedules were the cause of this chaos. Jim Perino was the new principal, new to ESHS. Bill Watkins, a teacher, was also the Athletic and Activities Director. Dr. McKinney was the new Attendance and Discipline man. Mary Ramano changed jobs from Activities to Attendance, and back to Activities again. Eighth grade teachers changed schools from Junior High to High School. And to add to the confusion, 11 teachers who had been laid-off last spring were rehired two weeks before school started. But true to ESHS tradition, by the end of September, those dedicated energetic teachers and staff were looking good!

AN ASSORTMENT

Secretaries and others

An assortment of teachers, secretaries, administrators and custodians kept good old El Segundo High School running for the 1979-80 school year. Although there were many changes in the staff, school went on as usual. Teachers were a many varied group who had interests not only in their jobs but also out side of school. They traveled, worked other jobs and participated in many different hobbies such as flying, hang gliding, photography and hunting. They also coached, sponsored clubs and chaperoned student activities. Their methods of teaching were as varied as their personalities. Some taught strictly by the book while others more or less made up their own curriculum. Some were very strict and others were rather lienent. But all were willing to lend a helping hand to the students when they needed it.

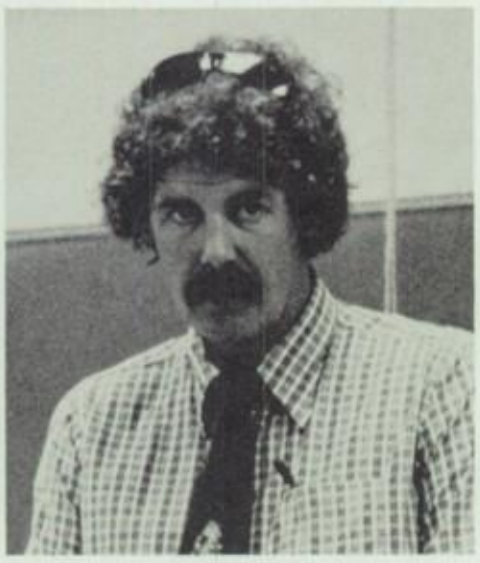
"Look Ma, no cavities," says smiling Henry Stuart, Biology teacher, twice laid-off and then rehired.



Jack Wayt, Law Enforcement teacher, is better known to students as #21436.

RECYCLING TEACHERS-

They come, go and return

Nine former junior high teachers were teaching at ESHS since the closing of the junior high school in June, 1979. Some of these teachers had been former high school teachers and had returned to their old stomping grounds. Bob Kingston, former Assistant Principal at the junior high and once an Assistant Principal and teacher at the high school, taught P.E. Jack Lowell started his teaching career at the high school shop and returned to teach metal shop. Pat McNaughton was once the band instructor for the high school before going to junior high and came back to teach math and several subjects. Because 8th graders were now attending school on the high school campus, many former teachers of junior high were teaching high school subjects. Recycling was a way to conserve and make use of school resources. . .its teachers and students.

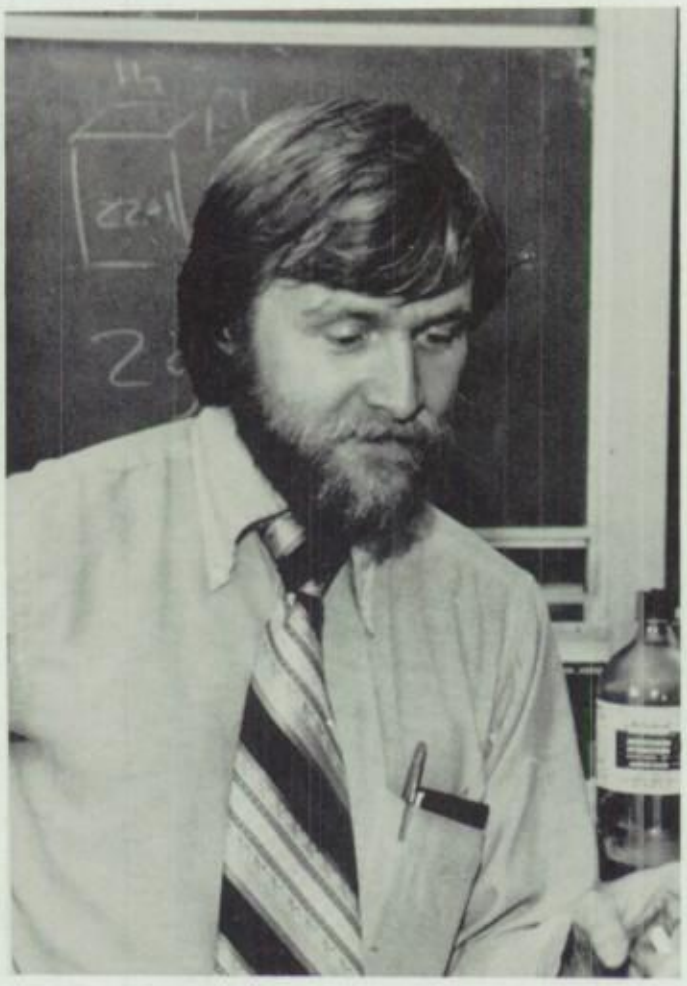
"You what?" states a bewildered Larry Cummings. It seems one of his students has come up with some new excuse.



"Awright youse mugs, I wanta know da formula and I wanit now," states Norman Sandstrom, Chemistry teacher.

ACADEMICS

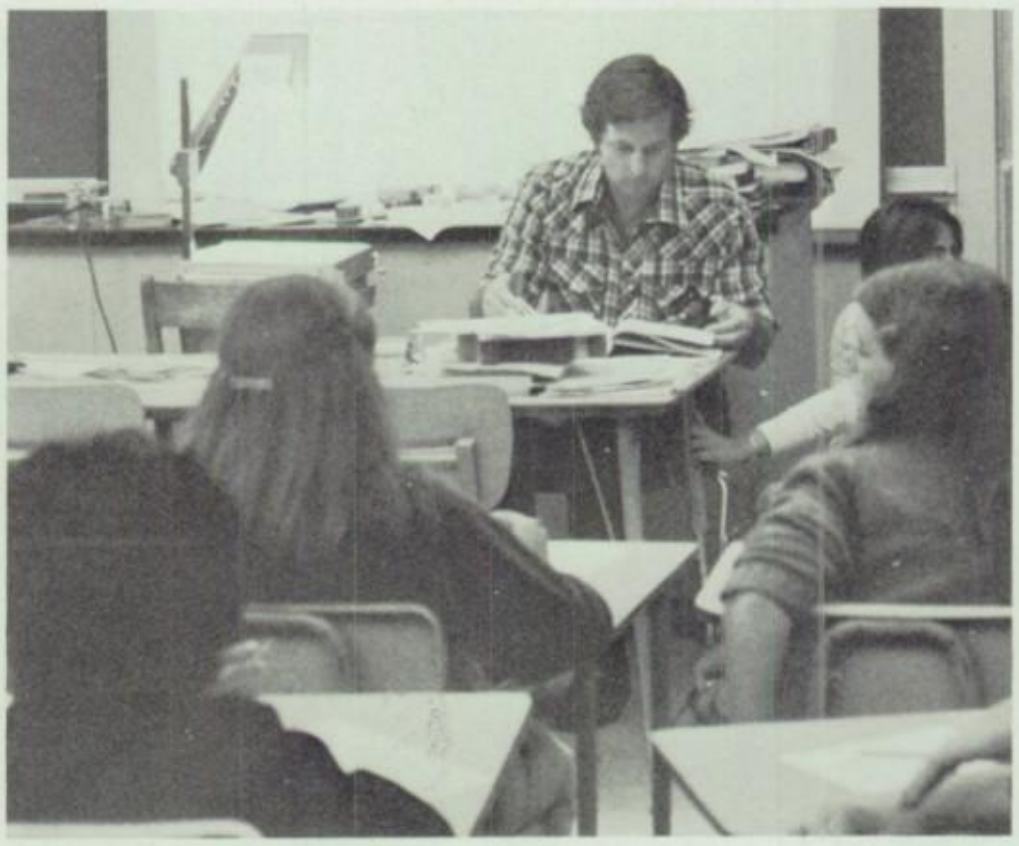
John Stevenson surprises his students as well as himself with a Freshmen Studies quiz. "I have to keep them on their toes."



Jim Kerker tries to entertain his students during an Earth Science lecture. Many Freshmen took Earth Science before going on to Biology or Chemistry.

Marcia Bradley doesn't like people to look over her shoulder in Mrs. Peterson's Short Story class.

Mrs. Holliday is interrupted during Science Fiction class. Donna Lappen looks up from her work as Doug Griffith ponders the answer to his homework.

Tracy Westover looks startled as she prepares to leave the library where Mr. Wilson's American Humor class has been looking for books for their reports.

HOW DO YOU SPELL ENGLISH?

I SPELL ENGLISH . . .

Top: Nick Daniels busies himself with vocabulary. Whitey Kowalczyk and Gina Brady take a short break as Tim Nye concentrates on his work. Left: Nancy Vidmar is dumbfounded as she does her work in Mr. Snelgrove's Freshmen English class. Teri Bouterbaugh laughs at her work as Rick Saunders looks on.

Mr. Wilson talks to Kevin Walts while Scott Wheeler and the rest of the class search for the right book. Harold Hildebrand stretches to find out what's going on.

. . .H-o-m-e-w-o-r-k

Homework was a big part of English this year, and vocabulary was a big part of the week's assignments. To most students studying was very stodgy, but some were surprised to discover that they had a certain serendipity for correct answers. Although English was a required course, there was some amount of variety. 8th graders could choose between either Mrs. Slaughter or Mr. Snelgrove. Freshmen had a choice of Mr. Sochor or Mr. Snelgrove. Sophomores, Juniors and Seniors chose from classes ranging from Mr. Duffy's Drama Lit. to Mr. Peterson's English Lit. Some who liked comical classes took Mr. Wilson's American Humor. Others who liked to read took classes like Mrs. Holliday's Science Fiction or Mrs. Peterson's Short Story. To most students, English was lots of HOMEWORK!!!

MATH- A GAMBLE

Students take a chance

It was a sure bet that students would enjoy Dick Whittington's Algebra class. They got to throw the dice while studying the laws of probability. When not tossing dice against the wall, they were learning how to do equations by watching the overhead projector. Bob Thorsen and his Geometry students, meanwhile, were studying all the angles. Don Woodsmall's Math Analysis students were more serious and touched upon the laws of Calculus. Meanwhile, Steve Newell, Dick Anderson and Pat McNaughton were struggling with the very basics.

Mathematically speaking, the math classes had a lot of plus's going for them. The only minus's came when students took the proficiency test.

Jenny Elting puts her brain in gear while hoping that she be enlightened and know how to solve equations that require a little more than some thinking.

Cindy Flogg is bored with the first days of Dick Whittington's math class, but Jenny Elting finds happiness in not having homework to keep her busy.

Dick Whittington is caught working hard as he tries to clarify a few discrepancies during one of his much more problematic math classes.

Bob Thorsen, commonly known for making Geometry bearable, takes some time to help a concerned Chris Eichor in solving some problems.

While Sheri Mach pays close attention to class, Samantha Frieze and Randy Hughes are distracted, and Jeff Leigh is frustrated.

Janine Tschumi works diligently trying to finish one of the many Chemistry labs that were assigned. When the bells ring, she has to move on again.

Henry Stuart recites one of the many instructive lectures that he has memorized through the years while reaching Biology five periods a day.

Mike Gallo is astonished as he is the first El Segundo High student to experience one of the murations that will occur in years to come.

After looking at the grades of Jim Kerker's Earth Science test, Jenny Lauria looks disgusted and hopes to have done much better.

SCIENCE STINKS

Mixed reactions

"It is sort of like geography. You have to know where every part is," said Mitch Mahony about dissecting animals in Biology.

"Ugh! It smells-those bugs and animals when dissected really stink," grumbled Rod Manser. He preferred Chemistry. So did Kim Fisher who found the Chemistry course challenging. Mark Lepisto liked the reactions from mixing chemicals and discovering new formulas. "Physics is nice, too," said Mark.

Those were some of the reactions and quotes about the more advanced science courses. The Freshmen and Sophomores were not as vocal about Earth Science, perhaps because it is the more common science class for the one-year requirement.

Whatever the reasons for taking science courses, students found that Norm Sandstrom, Alex Bolyantz, Henry Stuart and Jim Kerker made science courses fun and educational, and that is not easy!!

HISTORY-IS IT ALL THAT BORING?

History As An Elective-

"Boring"! Was one of the descriptive and printable terms given to history classes of El Segundo High School. From 8th grade Social Studies to Freshman Studies and Geography, from CWA to U.S. History and Political Behavior, ESHS students did not enjoy their required Social Studies classes. When asked if they thought history was important most students answered "No" because they felt the present and the future are our problems today. If students could choose only one Social Studies class, most of them would choose Behavorial Science because they could relate to it more. Learning about the energy crisis and the 1980 elections hopefully kept ESHS student involved and kept them from being bored with school.

While Brian Markel takes a breather reading the paper in Law Enforcement, Mitch Mahony thinks intensely about how the law works.

"Bayoners! Kill! Revolution! Yuk!" thinks Claire Kelly while Carol Kelly and Karin Johnson look on.

Valerie Resse's expression tells us she could answer any question in Law Enforcement class with ease. "Let me tell you..."

Football seems to be more important than Law Enforcement on a Friday before a home game for John Hess and Gus Higbee.

SOCIAL STUDENTS

"I always have to do the dirty work," says Scott Hubbard while Traci Shober finishes her work before the lights go out.

"Yes, sometimes I do get a chance to relax here and there while teaching history," confesses Ted Peterson, eighth grade Social Studies teacher.

"Oh, come on! Do I have to read it again? Once is enough!" pleads Michael Cummings.

The Energy Crisis and the Three Mile Island are some of the important discussions covered in Mr. Conner's CWA class.

Mary Stewart takes a quick glance at her Political Behavior between classes before a test.

LANGUAGE WITH CLASS . . .

ESHS has it-

"Hola", "Bonjour", are two of the most popular foreign words, and right here at ESHS one can learn these two common languages, Spanish and French. Living only a few hours away from the border, many students elected to take Senor Frank Real's and Senorita Neva Hitchcock's Spanish classes. Spanish is hard work but Mr. Real and Mrs. Hitchcock try to simplify the task. Beth Wolf's French classes are also hard work but in the end, it pays off. Our Foreign Language department helps many students become better educated. "Tres bien" and "Muy bueno".

Janine Tschumi and Jose Fernandez converse in Spanish as Janine helps Jose to understand how to do a difficult assignment that Frank Real assigned during his Spanish III-IV class.

Above: Laura LaCognata concentrates on her French lesson as Jeremy Duval stares blankly into space during French III-IV. Right: "French is sooo exciting," mutters Nancy Peterson as she practices learning her French in her sleep. But Sabrina Hulsey and Julie Eggars do not agree.

Stefanie Joice throws up her hands when Kellie Hanna asks her a difficult question in Mrs. Lenker's Typing class. Meanwhile Catherine Freize busies herself solving the problem.

STUDENTS GET THE BUSINESS . . .

Lonette Holquin, Deena Senior, Erin Douglas, and Kristin Zuziak try typing on one machine. As you can see Anne Lenker's Accounting class tries new innovative ways to learn old skills.

Opportunities-

Students of ESHS got the business skills needed to find careers to keep their own lives in order. Anne Lenker's Model Office class provided real-life experience in running an office. Her Accounting and Shorthand classes offered students skills for jobs in the area. George Hall taught Business Math and Typing classes for the average citizen or secretary. Martha Langley had typing I and Business English. Warren Roseland and Pat McNaughton rounded out the department with more Typing and Business Math classes. Yes, students got the business skills to give to their future employers Fair Trade!!

ANNUAL STAFF SURVIVES ANOTHER YEAR

"Mmmm, good," says Regina Rill "but please don't tell Mrs. Peterson; she says that in her class candy and food attract ants."

"What, you made another mistake?" says editor Mitch Mahony to one of the staff.

Kathryn Peterson, and Jeff Owens are happy with the new ideas the staff is creating.

Tangie Truman, Sheri Sumrow, and Jodi Blahut pay close attention to Mitch Mahony, Editor, while he shows how to write copy.

Golden Eagle Soars

Pressures pressures pressures! That describes Annual class from the first day of school till Annual day in spring. All year annual students had to work under pressure. With the blood, sweat, and tears of sixteen students and one advisor, Kathryn Peterson, the El Segundo High School 1980 Golden Eagle finally exploded on the scene. Mitch Mahony, and Christine Dunkel, shared honors as co-editors. They said, "This year's staff seems to be working very hard; they're sharp and hopefully we can get supplements this year." Some students received English credit for their efforts, others just took the class as an elective. Everyone worked very hard and sold ads on their own time to make sure that the 1980 Golden Eagle had your picture in it, and that your name was spelled correctly.

BAY EAGLE TAKES THE FIFTH

Co-Editors-in-chief, Tina Janis, and Sue Al-Marayati do a few last minute touch ups, and inspections, before they run the paper through the printing presses.

International Winners

Who did what, when, where or why, was all answered in the student newspaper, the Bay Eagle.

Advisor, Pam Holliday said "Changing Journalism from period three to five made quite a difference. For the first time in twelve years the Bay Eagle had to be ready for the printing press a day earlier, which was difficult for a staff of mostly new students."

"The staff is alive this year. They're all great. There's a lot of cooperation," said co-editors Tina Janis and Sue Al-Marayati.

What the students liked best about Journalism was the challenge, responsibility, and "freedom of the press." They wrote what they wanted to.

Last year the Bay Eagle won an International First Place Award during the 1978-79 school year. This year they are striving for another one.

Julie Nurminen very carefully glues on a heading made for an ad in the Bay Eagle.

BAND HAS CHANGES

New Teachers and Facilities

Dick Tash, band instructor, returned to El Segundo High School after a year's leave of absence. Getting the marching band ready for football half-time performances and directing the stage band in some jazzy tunes, Mr. Tash had a hectic beginning. When asked how it felt to return to these duties and prepare to move into the new building, he pulled out his hair. Whoever said listening to stage band students tooting their horns and beating their drums was easy? Certainly not the poor band students who suffered, practiced and performed in concerts after they brushed up on their techniques.

Band moved into their new music building on the West Wing campus complete with practice rooms and sound proofing. Some good comes from every change you make. Welcome back, Mr. Tash!

"Oh, boy. Listen to this catchy tune," exclaims stage band instructor Dick Tash. Tim Zajic doesn't quite share Mr. Tash's enthusiasm.

Eric McMillan squints his eyes as he isn't pleased with his sweet note on the trombone. Cheer up, Eric. Practice makes perfect!

Carlos Colunga and Rick Wilson pick the strings on the guitars while Mike Lewis gets on with the beat on the drums! It's all a part of stage band music.

Stage Band plays for concerts, assemblies, dances, but mostly for fun. Teri Schrader and Karen Preston jazz it up on the saxophone! Those old boogie blues!

DRILL TEAM AND MARCHING BAND

Busy Performing

Drill Team and Marching Band had a hectic but successful year. They practiced many hours to perform at football half-times. The band also played at basketball games and rallies. Homecoming was the highlight of the year, complete with floats and fireworks. The drill team did a routine to "Band Stand Boogie." Spirit was high even though the Eagles lost their game to Leuzinger.

The sponsor for Drill Team was Mrs. Behrmann. Drill Team had a mascot, Christine Muller. She was just as full of spirit as the rest of the Drill Team.

In the stands where the drill team sits seem to be several happenings. Some girls are watching, cheering or just thinking. In the back is mascot Christine Muller.

During a drill team practice on the field for a home game, Lisa Johnson tries to keep everybody even in line while Deena Senior and Holly Phillips have already perfected it.

Margaret Muller seems to be the oddball. She is the only one who is playing the flute and the only girl!

During fourth period Mike Vasconcellos, Clark Broyles and Peter Wilkinson have marching band practice to practice for one of our football half time performances.

Drill team members gather during fourth period on the field to listen to their colonels Sabrina Hulsey and Cammy Nealeigh.

HAPPINESS IS SINGING

Changing rooms is no big problem for Chorus teacher Diane Simons. She just laughs it off and prepares for bigger and better things.

Front row: John Bolivar, Brian Kennedy, Gary Christensen. Row 2: Camela Krebs, Ann Baron, Leah Smith, Rob Nye, Christie Dunkel, Jennifer Tourkin, Lauren Mandl. Row 3: Monica Walpuski, Liz Kennedy, Nancy Gaines, Michael Bergman, Chuck Marin, Ximena Avila, Rosa Vicky Ojeda, Julie Nurminen, Kim Mc Glothin. Back row: Stephanie Wong, Linda Cleere, Rick Wilson, Kelly Pickard, Brian Carr, Tim Wefel, Marcus Clark, Kelly Snow, Tammie Johnson.

Chorus works hard

Chorus does work very much, but to the students it's more like fun. The songs range from classical to modern and from slow and mellow to fast and jazzy. The students have different reasons for taking the class. One said, "I took chorus because I like music and I like to sing. Chorus gives me the opportunity to sing with people I really like alot." Another said, "I took chorus because Miss Simons is a great teacher and I love to sing." Most students planned to continue in music in college or in a church choir. Some of the songs that were sung were not enjoyed by everyone, but they were fun to sing. Students liked soft rock or classical, although some said that they enjoyed all music. Chorus is a fun class; although it was work, there was no homework. One student summed it up, "Chorus is great."

SHOP, SHOP, BUZZ, BUZZ

Julie Peterson measures wood to be cut for her wood shop class project. She must be very accurate to make the project come out correctly. She'll get an "A".

Oh, what a relief

Relief from boring classrooms and sitting at a desk all day was found in shop classes where students worked, played and learned. Auto Shop students could bend, crawl, or climb as they worked on their cars or motor cycles. Al Carson ran a good class for Auto Shop and the students benefitted greatly, especially with the price of gas over $1.00 a gallon. Students worked hard to get maximum performance from their engines.

Jack Lowell, one of the Junior High shop teachers who came to the high school with the new change, taught Metal Shop. His students worked on making light switches and buzzers.

Buzzing right along in Wood Shop, Dave Garringer had his students building many different things with wood, hoping to enter them in the Rotary Contest in the spring.

Shop classes did not fizzle out this year. They were bubbling over with enthusiastic students eager to build, create and escape from the classroom. Oh, what a relief it was too!

Neil Hall, one of ESHS's new 8th graders, smiles happily as he solders two pieces of wire together for his Metal Shop project.

Chris Goodwin pushes the wood in slowly to the saw while, Dan Roberts guides it with precision for one of the projects in wood shop.

IT'S A DRAW IN ART

Merry Beth Mills and Art teacher Daniel Jeldum plan Merry Beth's animation project on Vellum paper before actually putting it on film.

Apples and oranges

Drawing apples and oranges was only one lesson in Art Class. From these, students advanced to abstracts and even figure drawing. Fashion Design was also an Art Class and students created their dream clothes on paper. Animation continued to be a big favorite in the Art department as students produced their own short animated films. Walt Disney, eat your heart out! El Segundo High School has artistic talent.

Fariba Dai is very pensive and thoughtful as she decides about her Art Class project. Chris Van Dorn has her idea drawn already out.

Lee Francis works hard to draw a unique design for his project in Art Class. Art offered students a chance to be creative and different.

FOODS COOK UP CHANGES

Away in East Wing

Coming from the junior high homemaking department, Jane Mikrut took over the Foods classes for students in grades eight through twelve. Nan Fisher, former homemaking teacher at the high school, was the sewing instructor. Each teacher had full classes of eager students wanting to whip up something frothy and easy.

Cooking classes started with frozen bananas and eventually advanced to such gourmet dishes as crepes. Boys took foods classes so they could cook their own meals when they are on their own. Microwave ovens and food processors made food classes more enjoyable than ever.

Sewing students worked on their own projects very eagerly. Both classes hoped to enter their finished projects in the Rotary contest in the spring. Homemaking increased the skills and knowledge of students for now and in the future. It was all in a year's work at ESHS.

Pam Galloway, Denise Witford and Margene Bonner work hard and vigorously on their homemaking projects in foods class.

Kim Thatcher asks Miss Jane Mikrut a difficult perplexing question about her homemaking project as Angela Booterbaugh listens in on the conversation.

EDUCATION GETS PHYSICAL

Sharon Casey, Debbie Brucker, Tracey Green and Tina Gomez enjoy playing football and goofing around in P.E. Class as Mr. Kingston looks on.

Some elect requirement

Running laps around the track and going up and down the stands, working out in the weight room and exercising. Who needed it? Well, P.E. students got it whether they needed it or not. Students also got volleyball, basketball, flag football, softball, tennis and archery. Ocassionally, students had a free day when periods were shortened. Although juniors and seniors didn't need to take physical education, many elected to take it for the physical fitness aspect. The 8th graders enjoyed P.E. more now than at the junior high because of the choices of classes. Bob Kingston, Bob Morris and Sandi Behrmann completed the teaching staff.

Angela Booterbaugh, with much grace and ease, causually catches a 200 yard pass very efficiently in a game of flag football.

Stephanie Molinaro does the can-can while setting the volleyball as Rhonda McEntire eagerly awaits to hit it over the net and Diane Nilson waits her turn.

"Strop goofing off!" expresses Mr. Bob Morris. "Everyone better pick up all those tennis balls or else one lap around the track!"

AIDES SOOTH TEACHERS

Painless Aides

Aides, those wonderful students who assist teachers and offices in their work and receive graduation credit, were abundant. Perhaps the best known aides were those who worked in the Media Center or the Library. They delivered audio visual equipment, checked out books, dittoed tests and made signs. They also added to the chaos of the Media Center at times. Aides answered telephones while secretaries were out to lunch, delivered passes, picked up attendance slips, and typed the bulletins and Master List. Busy hands were happy hands for the hard working aides.

Teachers' aides helped individual teachers in whatever way they could. They typed, changed bulletin boards, corrected papers, helped other students and ran errands. How do teachers spell relief? A-i-d-e-s!

Peter Zalabak and Scott Crabbs ask Jac Lowell if there is any audio visual equipment to be delivered or dittoed tests to be run off. These are questions often asked.

Teachers need supplies to teach, so Destene Carlson comes to the rescue and gets the supplies.

Susan Sims makes a phone call home where as Michele Steel, Michael Falvey, Gillian Briley and Evan Escobar work in the Attendance Office on keeping good records on students' attendances at ESHS.

Teacher John Stevenson is asking Laura Borders to make copies of his Geography test.

Pat Andrews is trying to make it all add up, but he just can't get the right numbers.

STUDENT BOOKIES IN LIBRARY

Library aide Danielle Harper works on getting check-out cards in order so it will make it easier to get the books back on time.

Doris Rosenberg is the Librarian at ESHS. She devotes most of her time giving assistance to students working on projects.

Peter Zalabak looks on as Kip Upton and Kevin Walts get suitable information with needed help of Librarian Doris Rosenberg.

Student Sherri Russell shows interest in doing her report that is due in English. She uses the Library to get it done.

Student Richard Brown is a hard working Library aide and brings a stack of papers to Elenor Truesdell a Library clerk.

STUDENTS TRADE SKILLS FOR ESHS

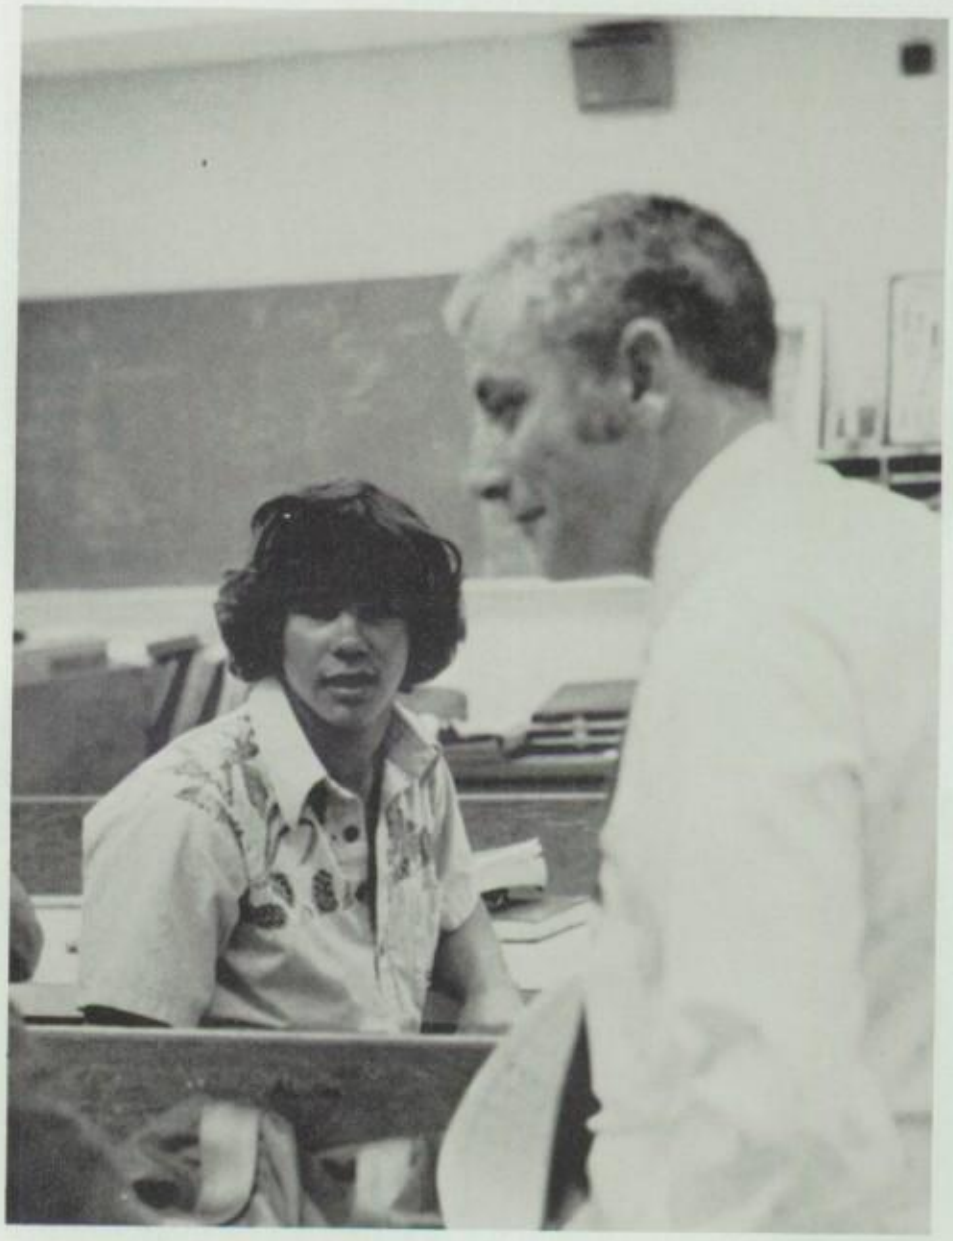
Alternatives to school

Approximately sixty students from El Segundo High School attended the Southern California Regional Occupational Center to learn a trade or skill for a full time career or a part-time job. About half of these students attended the morning session and the rest the afternoon. Most students rode the bus although a few preferred to furnish their own transportation. Students could earn a proficiency degree in almost any trade such as electronics, welding, mechanics, or dental assisting. SCROC served students from schools in the South Bay Area and the credits earned there could be applied to graduation credits. Times are changing and so are the ways in which students earn credits for graduation.

Darrell Haugh looks over Gina Brady's SCROC papers to make sure they are filled out right, then offers her some helpful advice as the SCROC bus driver looks on.

Laurie Bath is excited while waiting on the SCROC bus thinking about the busy day that is going to be ahead of her at SCROC.

Jim McLees looks pleased with himself while he looks at the project that he is working on at SCROC.



Kevin Walts looks shocked and surprised as he turns around to ask the teacher a question in his aircraft mechanics class he is attending at SCROC.

ALL WORK AND PAY

Raymond Burke, a senior, seems to enjoy his job at South Bay Hardware. Ray is just one of the many students that find time to have a job along with a busy school schedule.

Students make bucks

"Wow! My first paycheck. Who'd thought I would ever make so much money?" Certainly not the first-time work experience students. They found that Darrell Haugh was running a really tight and fine Work Experience and Career Center program. It wasn't all fun and money though. Students had to pick up time cards, return evaluations and projects. Also, that pay check had a big chunk of money taken out by Uncle Sam for tax purposes too. But to get paid for earning graduation credits was really worth it. Also available were slides and books and information about any job imaginable in the Career Center. Armed Forces reps were present once a month to answer questions. Students found a way to learn and earn before deciding their life's work.

Darrell Haugh, this year's Work Experience advisor, runs a fine and tight work experience program. He also finds jobs for those students who need one.

Mary Bell, a junior, works at the check-out counter in the Village Drug Store. Like most students, Mary uses her money for future plans.

A SPECIAL CLASS FOR SPECIAL PEOPLE

They Do It Their Way

If students had learning problems or some special problems with school, they had a chance to get their education in some of the special classes taught by Charlie Saikley, Joe Hern and Warren Roseland. In these classes, students found individual help and worked at their own pace and in their own way. They took all the basics in these special education classes but generally joined the rest of the student body in the electives. When asked what kind of student was in Special Ed., Joe Hern stated that "Special Ed. is more of an opportunities class. This class is for students who have attendance problems or are behind in their classwork."

Students and teacher work on a one-to-one basis in Special Education classes. Joe Hern helps Larry Erickson with his homework. This class consists of all grade levels.

Valerie Tapper takes some time off from her studies as she thinks about how great school would be without any homework.

Ian Trapnell and David Adams work hard as they try to finish many of the tasks that are assigned to them in their Special Education classes.

CLASSES KEEP US LEARNING

Erin Douglass shows her good typing skills to Deena Senior in their typing III class. Typing classes are becoming more popular at El Segundo High School.

As John Brady, Pat Curry and Mark Motta pay attention at their class meeting, Ron Moralli, Jeff Beaty and Fred Sorkin seem to have their minds elsewhere.

While discussing future plans at their Sophomore class meeting, Whitey Kowalczyk, Pat Taft and Steve Rausch sort of... kickback.

While Lynn O'Neill shows Marcy Clagg what she thinks of Political Behavior, Julie Eggars and Dee Walsh patiently wait for class to end. Sloan Hall looks coyly.

Never Too Old... Too Young

We never stop learning. Knowledge is found in books and in classes, but it is also found in our day-to-day existence. The most important knowledge is the self-knowledge about ourselves. Whether we received A's or F's really didn't matter in the end, we knew what we knew, and we were ready to use that knowledge as we watched our world turn in a perpetual change. We've come a long way, but we've still got a lot to learn about one another and ourselves.

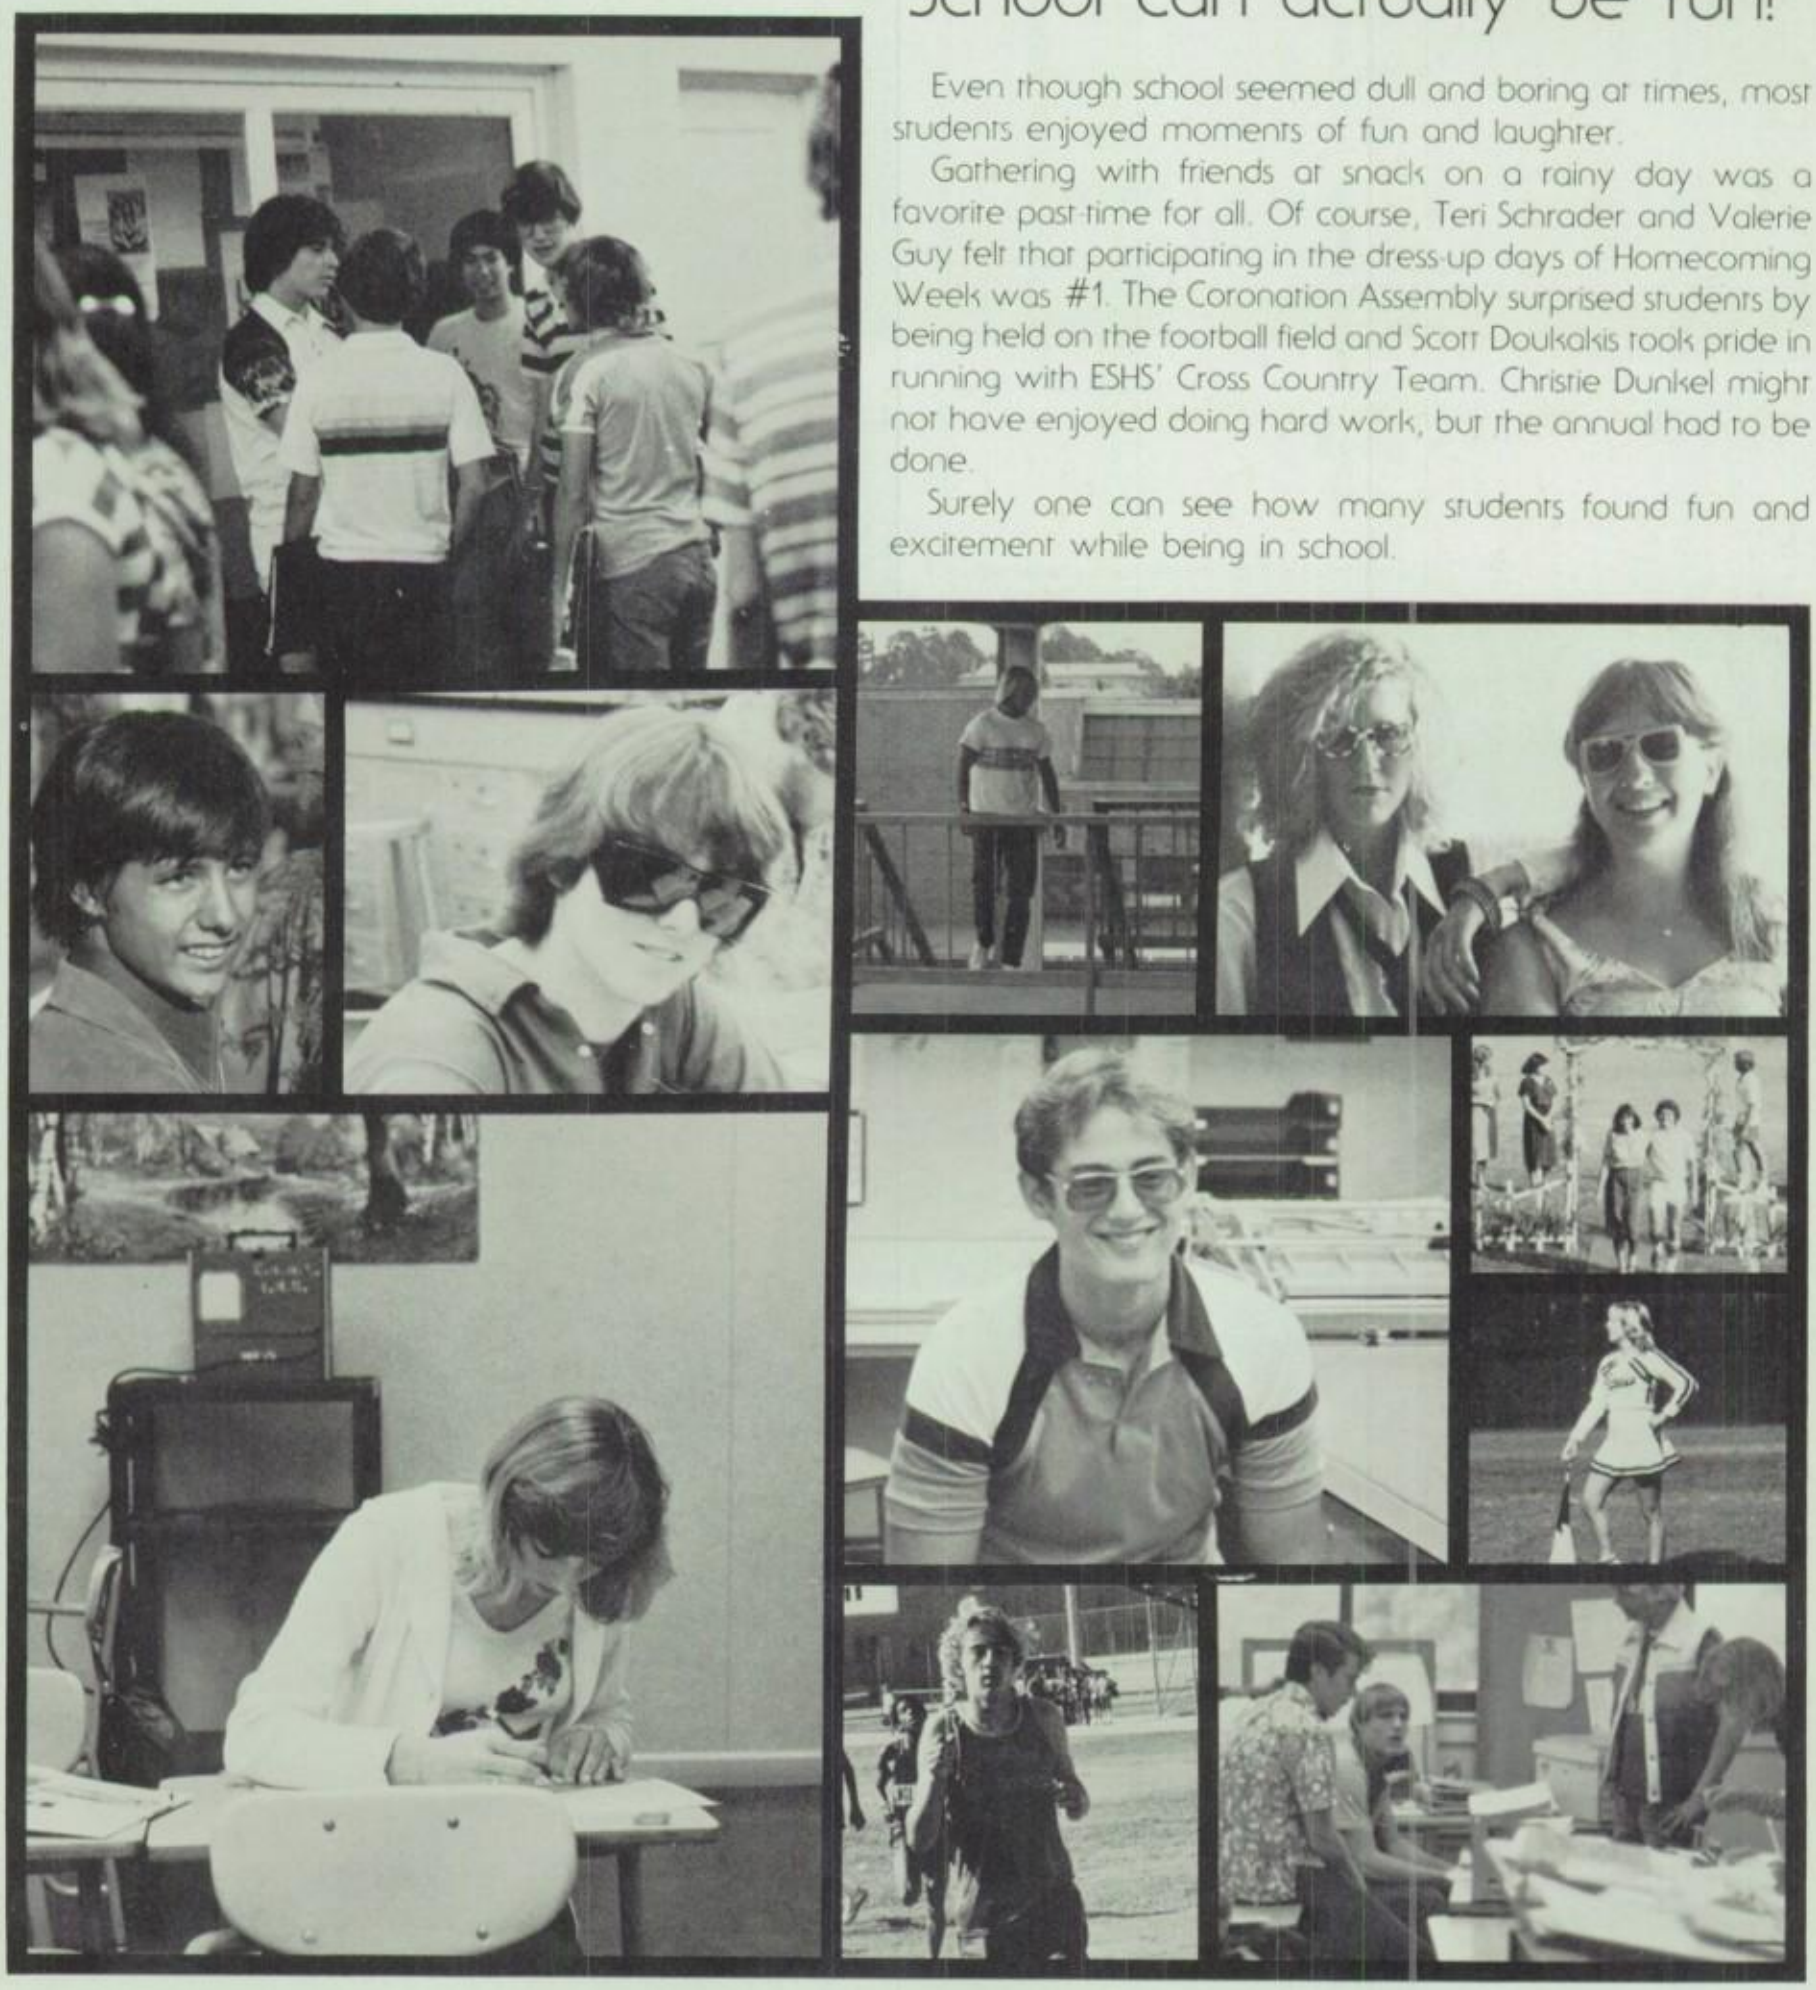
EXCITEMENT, THRILLS, AND LAUGHTER

School can actually be fun!

Even though school seemed dull and boring at times, most students enjoyed moments of fun and laughter.

Gathering with friends at snack on a rainy day was a favorite past-time for all. Of course, Teri Schrader and Valerie Guy felt that participating in the dress-up days of Homecoming Week was #1. The Coronation Assembly surprised students by being held on the football field and Scott Doukakis took pride in running with ESHS' Cross Country Team. Christie Dunkel might not have enjoyed doing hard work, but the annual had to be done.

Surely one can see how many students found fun and excitement while being in school.



ADS AND INDEX

Top: Janine Tschumi and Anne Lenker show their well-known smiles while discussing Girls' League. Above: Bren Conner asks Coach Dougherty about the next play. Right: Craig Voigt seems to be poisoned by ESHS Cafeteria food but is actually re hearshing the Drama Club play "Ten Little Indians".

ADS AND INDEX

Above right: Erin Douglass isn't sure right now if taking one of Mrs. Peterson's English classes is such a fantastic idea. But after she receives her "A", she'll be positive. Above: El Segundo's own Hacienda Hotel. Anything or anyone that someone needs or knows can be found in the Ads and Index.

The El Segundo Fire Department works hard to keep El Segundo safe. Standing by the truck are Captain Sant, Tom Kennedy, Paramedic Captain Chandlier, Captain Stuthard, George Lewis, Paramedic Keith Rodenhouse, John Maki, Paramedic John Nicholaus, John Gutierrez, John Gilbert, Rodney Pabst, Dan Ogden, Captain Johnson, Bob Spratten, and Mike Seifert.

Fire Department receives thanks!

Ring! Ring! Ring! Another monthly fire drill, or another false alarm. They always seem to come on rainy days or during a test! Although the threat of fire is always present, students hardly ever take fire drills seriously. In fact, trash can fires were quite common during the school year. The Fire Department, however, gives students a very secure feeling. Located only a couple of blocks from the school, the E.S.F.D. responds to emergencies quickly and efficiently. The Paramedics, who attend every football game-even the Powder Puff game, are also very much a part of the activities at ESHS. They also talk to some Freshmen Studies classes and demonstrate life-saving techniques. The demonstrations and techniques prove valuable since the school nurse's position was abolished. The Paramedics are on call for any and all emergencies at the school. ESHS is truly fortunate to have so much good protection and so many fine friends from the El Segundo Firs Department. We Thank You!!!

The Law Enforcement class gathers around an El Segundo police car. Front row: Michael Montecalvo, Gary Osnower, Eric McMillan, Michael Harrop, Marcia Gigena, Sandy Friebel, Sandra Collins, Jim Garza, John Hess, Gus Higbee, Jeffrey Fischel, and Katherine Coen. Back row: Sergeant J.O. Wayt, Benjamin Buffandeau, Jeff Owens, Valerie Reese, Donald Guzman, Brian Markle, Pat Andrews, and Paul Tourkin.

ESPD protects one and all!

"Students are reminded not to jay walk across Main Street in front of the school. Police will issue citations to those caught jay walking," announced The Daily Bulletin on several occasions throughout the year. Police were trying to prevent serious accidents and teach students to be careful. A few students learned the hard way as they received citations for disobeying the law. Through the Law Enforcement class, a very popular class taught by The El Segundo Police Department at El Segundo High School, students studied about the law and their rights and protections provided by the law and the local police department. Many of these students joined the Police Explorer's club sponsored by The El Segundo Police Association. These students went on ride-alongs with the local police and helped control crowds at some local functions. The association also sponsors Bobby Sox and Little League teams. Some El Segundo alumni are police officers today as a result of participation in these activities. In addition to protecting our homes, property , and lives, El Segundo Police provide security at school events. At almost every home football game, the police are seen strolling around, checking the area, and visiting with students. They are there to serve us when we need them - no matter where we are. The El Segundo Police Department is truly a friend and a service to the school and community.

Senior Dennis Boyd dreams about all the happy times he had at school during the last four years at ESHS.

El Segundo Refinery

Chevron

Driving along El Segundo Boulevard, anyone can see the towering columns of the El Segundo Chevron Refinery that has been so much a real part of our lives.

"Tooooooooot!" 7:00 a.m. and all is well. The whistle of the looming El Segundo Refinery reminds many of us that we really must get out of bed now - no more stalling - or else we will be late to school or church. For the employees of the El Segundo Chevron Refinery it means that they are late to work!

The Village Drug Store, located in the Mariposa Shopping Center, provides gifts, prescriptions, cosmetics, and many other personal needs for the students and people of El Segundo.

Senior Tracey Martin and Sophomore Sue Sims smile over the victory of their volleyball game and are proud to be part of the El Segundo team.

Principal James Perino and gym teacher Sandi Behrmann discuss the newly remodeled girl's gym which has just been opened.

Sophomore Pat Curry takes a minute from his biology homework to think about what it will be like to be a senior in the future.

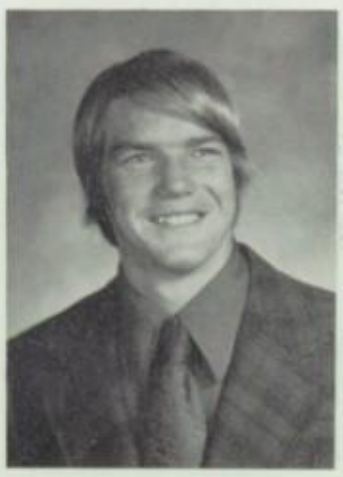
AS THE YEARBOOK CLOSES

Good - Bye And Thank You

Christie Dunkel 1980
Golden Eagle Co-Editor



Mitch Mahony 1980
Golden Eagle Co-Editor

As we leave El Segundo High School and enter the future and the coming decade, we must focus on our possibilities and potentials rather than on our problems caused by the changes in our school and our lives. We must rely on our own self-relience rather than that of the faculty or community.

You, the graduates and students of El Segundo High School, are essential if we are to realize our possibilities as a great school and contribute to the future of ESHS. We all must be aware of our individual responsibilities in answering the challenge of The Changing Tides in our lives and our school.

We must continue to build school pride and spirit. We must increase the involvement of the alumni and the students in fostering a better school for all people. You can contribute and make your ideas known by joining clubs, participating in class meetings and sports, becoming active in Student Government, and by being the best school citizen and student you can be.

Let's join forces and face the challenge of changes together. Your Golden Eagle Staff hopes this book will serve that purpose.

This is also a perfect opportunity for us to thank each of you for your support and involvement in producing this book. Our special thanks to the students, faculty and administration, parents, community and businesses, Roberts Studio, and Dave Sorenson of the American Yearbook Company. We wish to give an extra-special thank you to Art Hooper for helping take pictures, and to Pat Phillips for the many hours of his own time he spent helping us design and finish many of our pages.

As co-editors of The Golden Eagle, we wish all of you good luck in the coming decade and changing tides.

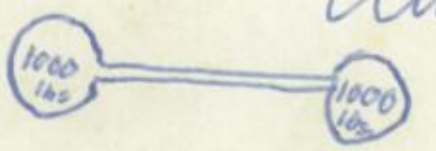
Ed,
I'm glad we talked this year. I hope I'll see you around in the summer and next year. Hope you become a "star" in football. You're a nice guy.

Love,
Nancy

Eddie,

Ots been cool this year, short but cool!! Well I bet when you get out of Manitou, You will be another Arnold Swarzenegger!!! Well have fun and I'll see ya next year.

Alvin



Eddie (Flaming),

It's been a pleasure surviving through outrageous weekends which you great guys are totally responsible. You'll probably be a success in your athletic career & in whatever you do. We have to keep in touch & get together occasionally to reminise old time. Take care & good luck.

Your Good Friend!

— Ray —

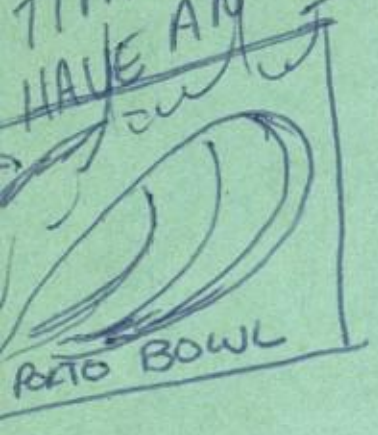
Ed,

Hi, well we sure did have alot of fun in CWA. I looked forward to the class everyday (HAHA). I'm really glad I got to know you this year, and I had fun partying with you. You're real sweet, and I like talking to you. I'm glad you told me about Dennis, otherwise I wouldn't have known. Even though I wish what you told me wasn't true, I cant do anything about it, I guess. Well I hope you have a great summer, and I hope you don't party too much.

Love ya,
Jonette

"82"
(good number, don't ya think)!

ED
HOPE YOU
HAD A GREAT YEAR
ART WAS A GREAT CLASS
AND THERE SOME FUNNY
TIMES IN THERE. WELL
HAVE AN EXCELLENT SUMMER!
LATER
PAT HALEY



EDWARD,

Sophomore year was real cool. Not worrying about getting PICKED on because of being a .fres men. But next it will be almost upper-class man. We'll have our licenses and we'll crui the strand looking for box's. Get ready for a blastin' summer

Devin
Edward

ED

The year was great and the summer will be too it was fun camping we will go alg## in the summer and we will go the beach
